Answers Administration

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight accused Administration critics of "intentional fabrication" in attacking GOP farm policy.

Backing to the hilt the Aiken-Hope farm parity program laid down by the Eightieth Congress, Dewey smacked at Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan's charge that Republicans are out to wreck farm price support.

"That charge was created out of thin air and was designed to deceive producers of American agricultural products," he said.

Dewey insisted he wasn't replying to Brannan but to the "Truman Administration."

"Brannan made it after leaving the White House," he said. "All the Truman people are making the charge and they are making it up."

Governor Dewey broke his pre-campaign quiet at a press conference following a four-hour talk with Representative Clifford R. Hope (R., Kans.) and Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), chairman of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees.

Immediately afterward he issued a statement firmly indorsing Hope-Aiken parity law "principles both for the present and the future."

The law, enacted in the closing moments of the last regular session, supports farm prices at 90 per cent of parity through 1949, and at a flexible range of 60 to 90 per cent of parity in 1950.

Dewey clearly implied that he contemplates no changes in that formula.

He said today's conference with Aiken and Hope, and a round-robin of all three with news and radio farm editors tomorrow at Pawling, were not summoned in answer to the Administration's attack. The Aiken-Hope huddle on the farm program was slated two weeks ago, he said.

In these other developments, Governor Dewey:

60 Million Pigs Asked of Farmers As Spring Goal

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Department of Agriculture yesterday called on the nation's farmers to produce the largest peacetime spring pig crop in history next spring.

The goal is for 60 million spring pigs—nearly nine million or 17 per cent above last year's crop.

The goal aims at providing 150 pounds of meat for every man, woman and child in the country, beginning late next year. Present consumption is averaging about 145 pounds a year. Last year it averaged 156 pounds. Prewar per capita consumption was about 126.

The Department stated that although this year's record corn crop would provide enough feed for an even larger pig crop next year, the decreased number of sows and gilts available for breeding will limit the crop to the goal asked.

Only twice before—both during the war—were larger spring pig crops sought. In 1942, 61 million were raised; in 1943, 74 million.

Blow for Blow Is Outlook

Wallace's Power May Wreck Truman's Hope for New York

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

New York, Sept. 17.—Henry Wallace appears to be strong enough here to wreck President Truman's chances of carrying New York. However, it looks as if he is going to have to take a blow to land one.

His little Gideon's detachment in the U. S. House of Representatives is expected to be reduced on November 2. Conceivably it could be wiped out altogether.

Representative Leo Isacson, a Wallace protege, who won a spectacular victory in the Bronx last February, is facing defeat this time. The Democratic, Republican and Liberal parties are ganging up on him; consequently, most politicians have written him off.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, who hardly ever deviates from the Communist Party line, is in better shape. He is in for a tough fight and could lose, but generally is given a 50-50 chance to win. Some veteran political analysts think his outlook is even better than that.

Had the Democrats, Republicans and Liberal Party people been able to agree on a single opponent

Truman Gay As He Starts Western Trip

(By a Post Reporter)

Aboard Presidential Special, en route to Dexter, Iowa, Sept. 17.—President Truman set out on a cross-country barnstorming trip today with a promise to "give 'em hell" and "mow 'em down."

Mr. Truman acted not at all like a man who, according to the poll takers and the analysts, is destined to be an also ran on election day.

He seemed gay and confident as he was boarding his 17-car campaign special at Union Station this morning.

U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic vice presidential nominee, saw him off with a cheery "goodby, good luck and mow 'em down."

"I think I am going to mow 'em down," said the Chief Executive.

"Are you going to carry the fight to them, Mr. President?" he was asked by a reporter.

"We're going to give 'em hell," said Mr. Truman.

"Yes," Barkley chimed in, "it's going to be a victory trip."

"That's right," Mr. Truman agreed, "a VT trip."

The President will make his first major speech on the 900-mile trip tomorrow at Dexter, Iowa, which is 30 to 40 miles from Des Moines. The occasion will be the national plowing contest, and it would surprise no one if Mr. Truman tries his hand at turning over a furrow.

The campaign special made its first stop at Baltimore today. A delegation of about 40 Democratic leaders turned up at the station, and were greeted by Mr. Truman from the rear platform of his private car. Former Senator George Radcliffe, a colleague of Mr. Truman in the latter's Capitol Hill days, introduced the others. They included Joseph Byrnes, president of the State Senate; Robert D. En-

Threats Drive 3 Negro College Heads From Town

Milledgeville, Ga., Sept. 17 (U.P.).—Presidents of the three Negro colleges in the Georgia University system left town after a demonstration was threatened against their mingling with white officials at a meeting here this week, it was disclosed tonight.

Dr. Guy Wells, president of the State College for Women, said the college arranged for the Negro representatives to stay in Negro homes and eat in Negro restaurants.

"There were no violations of the accepted rules of the Southern behavior pattern, unless sitting in the same room is such a violation," he continued.

"We were warned that a demonstration might take place."

"During the night they left," he said, "and they reported they were harassed by cars following them to the edge of town."

The Negro presidents were C. V. Troup of Fort Valley State College, James A. Colston of Georgia State College, Savannah, and Aaron Brown of Albany State College.

West Virginia to Make Full Probe of C. B. Porter's Death

West Virginia has decided to make a "thorough investigation" into the death of Charles B. Porter, 52, former treasurer of the Washington Times-Herald.

Porter plunged to his death from the sixth floor of a Clarksburg, W. Va., hotel Tuesday.

Col. W. E. Burchett, superintendent of West Virginia's State police, said he had ordered the probe because of the wide publicity given Porter's death. He said Sergt. W. E. Murphy of the State police station of Clarksburg has been assigned to investigate. Previously the death had been held a suicide.

The order followed by a few hours a request for an investigation by attorneys representing Countess Felicia Gizycka, daughter of the late Mrs. Eleanor M. Patterson, owner and publisher of the Times-Herald.

Porter's name was injected Thursday into the District Court suit in which Countess Gizycka is contesting her mother's will.

Her attorneys asked the court to appoint a collector for Porter's estate, claiming that papers in his possession at the time of his death may have an important bearing on the will case.

Yesterday the attorneys supplemented this request with a telegram to Gov. Clarence W. Meadows of West Virginia, which read:

"We are greatly concerned over available reports on the death of Charles B. Porter in Clarksburg, W. Va., on September 14, 1948. We respectfully request a full and complete investigation by your

'Economy Budget' Of $23.7 Million Leaves Out Funds For 'Critical Needs'

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The Board of Education, hewing to an economy line set by the District Commissioners, has asked for $23,746,250 to run the District school system next year.

The budget, released yesterday by the Commissioners, calls for $21,164,800 for operating expenses and $2,581,450 for capital improvements.

"These estimates," Board of Education President Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle declared in a letter accompanying the request, "do not include any of the critical needs of the public schools."

The request is $1,356,433 less than what Congress granted the board for the current fiscal year. The present budget provides $20,037,000 for operating expenses, $4,965,683 for capital improvements, and $100,000 for a special survey.

Fifth of Total Requests

The school budget represents about a fifth of the over-all budget requests of $110,188,648 for the fiscal year beginning next July made by all departments of the city government.

In preparing estimates, the school board was told by the Commissioners it could hire no new employes except those needed to operate new schools and could ask for no funds for new school construction.

The board has kept within this mandate but the letter from Mrs. Doyle and an appended statement from Schools Supt. Hobart M. Corning point to a need for both new teachers and new buildings.

Dr. Corning lists 20 school projects that he says should be authorized for construction. He also declares that additional teachers are needed for the expected increases in enrollments during 1950.

The budget makes no provision for pay raises for teachers. Should Congress authorize such a raise it would have to be added to the budget.

"Good business, and most certainly to the advantage of the District," would be the purchase of land for future school sites, Corning's statement said. He proposed that a minimum of three million dollars be appropriated for this purpose, but no mention of sites is made in the budget.

A year ago, Corning points out, the schools asked that two million dollars be appropriated for sites and only $50,000 was granted. Estimates now show, he said, that the cost of these same sites has gone up $300,000.

"A municipality must plan ahead for the responsibility of the education of its children," Mrs. Doyle's letter said. "To ignore the responsibility is folly."

"The Board of Education earnestly hopes that long-range efficient and economical planning for school needs will yet emerge in the budget."

Committee Asks for File On Condon

FBI Report Said To Link Scientist With Silvermaster, Other Alleged Reds

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The House Committee on Un-American Activities yesterday called upon President Truman to release an FBI report which it said links Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the Bureau of Standards, with alleged Soviet espionage agents, including Nathan Gregory Silvermaster.

President Truman retorted with a letter to a group of leading scientists promising to continue his fight "to keep the subject of atomic energy out of partisan politics."

Silvermaster, a former Government employe, recently appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities and refused to answer most questions on Communist Party affiliation and his associations on the ground of self-incrimination.

"Shocking Chapter" to Come

Silvermaster, however, is described in FBI, Naval Intelligence and police records of several cities as not only a Communist but a probable member of the Russian secret police.

The committee said yesterday that "in spite of Mr. Truman, Mr. Lilienthal (David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission) and a few misguided scientists, the American people will continue to get the facts from this committee and in the next few days, we shall reveal a shocking chapter in Communist espionage in the atomic field."

President Truman told a group of eight scientists in his letter that he is being opposed in his efforts to keep atomic energy out of politics by "highly placed" persons "who understand neither the significance of atomic energy nor the meaning of genuine national security in a democratic Nation."

Truman Pledges Protection

Although Mr. Truman did not mention the committee by name his reply to the eight scientists who had expressed concern over what they termed "smearing methods" by the House Un-American Activities Committee, he left no doubt as to whom he referred.

He said the Nation should protect itself against espionage and untrustworthy Government personnel in its atomic energy plants.

"I am determined that we shall protect ourselves effectively," the President said, "but I am equally determined that we shall maintain our safeguards within the framework of our democratic principles. With this I know you agree."

Meanwhile there were these other developments:

1. Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) yesterday called on Attorney General Tom C. Clark to seek indictments "against known Communists, both in and out of Government." Ferguson, chairman

The Gallup Poll

Public Approves Draft Law, Doesn't Know Term of Service

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 17.—Analysis of public opinion regarding the 1948 draft law leads to two important conclusions:

1. Voters approve the law by an overwhelming majority, but very few have a correct understanding about the length of service.

2. The fact that seven out of ten voters approve the law explains why it has not become an issue between the two major parties in this presidential campaign and is debated at all only by Henry Wallace and his Progressive Party.

A few days prior to the beginning of registration under the act the Institute asked this question:

"On August 30, all men between 18 and 26 years of age will start registering under the Federal draft law. In general, do you approve or disapprove of the draft?"

The answers nationally were:

Approve draft law	73%
Disapprove draft law	21
No opinion	6

Rank and file Democrats and Republicans see eye to eye on the draft. Wallace followers are split on the question, and, although a majority of them voiced disapproval of the draft, a substantial minority approve it. These political sidelights can be seen when the views of Dewey, Truman and Wallace voters are compared:

	Dewey Voters	Truman Voters	Wallace Voters
Approve draft law	75%	77%	32%
Disapprove draft law	20	18	59
No opinion	5	5	9

Previous Institute surveys revealed that the American people, if given a choice between the selective draft and universal military training, would chose UMT by a vote of more than 2 to 1. In other words, the public has been more in favor of requiring every young man to train for military service for one year rather than make relatively few men join the military forces for a much longer period.

The military authorities who sponsored the new Selective Service Act, when it became evident that Congress would not pass UMT, still face the problem of selling the public on the length of term which draftees will be required to serve.

When voters are asked how long they think a youth should serve, 55 per cent say 18 months or less, and only one in five thinks 21 months or 2 years would be right.

Actually, very few people realize what the law requires in regard to the length of service in the armed forces. To ascertain this lack of information, interviewers asked this question:

"Will you tell me how many months' service a young man has to put in under the new draft law?"

The odd fact is that very few voters in the Nation know exactly what the law says on this point. Four out of 10 voters say 18 months or less is required, and 17 per cent say 2 years. Only 1 in 5 said 21 months, which is part, but only part, of the correct answer.

Here is what the law says:

Every draftee must serve a basic 21 months. On top of that he must serve an additional 12 months unless he agrees to do one of two things; either join the National Guard for an additional 3 years after his 21 months of service, or enlist for an additional 5 years in the organized reserve.

4 Men in Jewish Uniform Halt Car; Mediator's French Aide Also Killed

Amman, Trans-Jordan, Sept. 17 (AP).—Swedish Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator in Palestine, and a French aide were assassinated by four men in Jewish uniforms in Jerusalem today.

(The United Nations Security Council was summoned to an emergency Saturday session in Paris, and several members were quoted as saying:

("Now all hell will break loose.")

The mediator was shot down in Jewish territory while on an official truce inspection tour of the "trigger happy" city, a phrase which the count himself had used a few hours before to describe conditions within the battle-geared town.

He had gone despite an anonymous warning that he would be fired upon, and had continued even after a sniper's bullet had smacked into his automobile tire.

"I will not be frightened," he had declared.

Colonel Serot, French officer and senior U. N. observer in Jerusalem, was the other victim.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, chief aide to Count Bernadotte, has been designated to take over thee slain mediator's duties until further notice.

[Dr. Bunche, grandson of an American Negro slave, is on loan to the United Nations from the State Department. He is director of the U. N. trusteeship division. He taught at Howard University in Washington from 1928 to 1932.]

United States Consul John Joseph MacDonald in Jerusalem reported to the State Department that Bernadotte and Serot were ambushed, "presumably by the Stern gang," while riding in a convoy from Government House through Katamon, Jewish-held suburb.

MacDonald said four men in a jeep suddenly blocked the way. Colonel Frank Begley, U. N. security officer and former Connecticut State policeman, grappled with one of the men and was slightly wounded in the face. But one of the others reached Bernadotte's car and shot down the count and the Frenchman at point-blank range with a Sten gun. MacDonald said the four men in the jeep escaped.

The 53-year-old count, a nephew of King Gustaf of Sweden and husband of the American heiress, Estelle Manville, had just capped four months of mediation efforts in the Palestine dispute by forwarding his report for consideration by the U. N. Assembly meeting in

3 Senators Hit Commutation Of Koch Term

Baldwin, Saltonstall, Tobey Assail Aid for Buchenwald Head

Three Senators yesterday demanded an explanation from the Army for action by United States officials in Germany commuting the life sentence of Ilse Koch, the woman who boasted her lamp shades and ash trays were made from the skins of victims of Nazi terrorism.

Their demands followed a report that the life sentence of Frau Koch, widow of the commandant of the Buchenwald concentration camp, was quietly commuted to four years and she is to be released in 1949.

"If even a small part of the testimony offered against her during the trial was true, this would seem to be an incredible reversal of justice," Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.) wrote. He was backed up by Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and Tobey (R., N. H.).

"This is an outrage," Tobey said. "The righteous indignation of the people must make itself heard to prevent such coddling of one of the most dastardly of Nazi criminals."

The dispatch from Germany reported the 42-year-old woman was given a commutation on the recommendation of the European the-

800 Japs Killed Or Missing, 1200 Injured in Flood

Tokyo, Sept. 17 (AP).—Eight hundred Japanese died or were missing and up to 1200 were injured early today when a rainstorm and a rampaging river flooded the city of Ichinoseki, 250 miles north of Tokyo.

United States First Corps headquarters at Sendai, 60 miles south of the stricken city, gave the estimate.

The Kyodo News Agency gave the round figure of 2000 for all casualties, including injured. The agency said 24 inches of rain fell in the city of 35,006 population.

The nearby Iwai River burst its dikes and rolled through the streets, washing away 500 homes and partly flooding 1600, Kyodo reported.

The rainfall was the tailend of a typhoon which swept over the Tokyo area Thursday night and then curved northward.

Eighth Army headquarters said three landslides which marooned 250 Americans in two rest hotels 50 miles southwest of Tokyo would be cleared away by Saturday noon.

Symington Reveals Action by Forrestal At Air Force Dinner

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington announced last night that Defense Secretary James Forrestal has approved funds for construction of the radically new jet-propelled bomber, Boeing B-47.

At the same time, a ranking defense official revealed that President Truman had cleared funds yesterday for construction of 213 other Air Force planes costing 103 million dollars. These include 100 F-80½-C and 100 F-84-C fighters and 13 B-50-C (B-54) bombers.

Symington told the Aero Club Air Force dinner at the Statler

Air Force officers admitted last night that a North American F-86 plane had set a new world record with a speed of more than 670 miles an hour.

Official announcement of the achievement is expected to be made at an Air Force Day celebration this afternoon.

that Forrestal had approval all of the Air Force's remaining aircraft construction funds, totaling 200 million dollars. Afterwards, Symington told The Washington Post that the balance of 97 million dollars includes the production contract for the B-47 bomber with swept-back wings and rocket propulsion in the tail.

Another Air Force source said there was some delay expected on minor provisions of the $97-million-dollar aircraft production plan.

Forrestal himself, at the same dinner, warned Air Force generals and the Nation's aviation leaders not to launch another congressional battle for greatly expanded air power.

The defense chief declared that any enlargement of next year's military budget beyond the 15-billion-dollar ceiling set by President Truman will almost inevitably require "controls, priorities and allocations."

Sharing the spotlight with the Secretary of Defense at the dinner was a lowly first lieutenant of the Air Force. To pay tribute to the achievements of the USAF men flying the Berlin airlift, a young pilot just back from Operation Vittles sat among the top brass at the head table and was

Steps Taken for Vote

Nonoperating Rail Unions Weigh Strike as Talks Fail

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP).—Wage talks between the railroads and their one million nonoperating workers collapsed today and a union spokesman said, "We are taking immediate steps for a strike vote."

Under the dispute-settling provisions of the National Railway Labor Act, either side can ask the National (Railway) Mediation Board to intervene.

Only three operating unions—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America—are restrained from striking under a court injunction issued last July 2.

These three unions asked the Supreme Court Wednesday to declare the injunction invalid under the Norris-LaGuardia Act.

Meanwhile, the railroads are continuing direct wage negotiations with five operating unions representing 300,000 workers. The engineers, locomotive firemen and enginemen, switchmen, conductors and trainmen make up this group.

Daniel P. Loomis, Chicago, chairman of the Western Conference Committee and spokesman for the carriers, said the nonoperating unions' demands would cost the roads $1,500,000,000 annually—twice their expected net income this year.

G. E. Leighty, head of the union negotiators, called the workers' demands "very reasonable."

Hyderabad Ruler Yields to India; 4-Day Fight Ends

New Delhi, Sept. 17 (AP).—The princely state of Hyderabad yielded to India today, and the hereditary Nizam ordered his people to adjust themselves to a "new mode" of democratic life.

The state's Moslem ruler, reportedly the richest man in the world, ordered a cease-fire effective at 5 p. m. (7:30 a. m. EDT), after 109 hours of fighting.

Indian troops, pressing in from all sides, had approached to within less than 50 miles of his capital.

He accepted the resignation of his government and agreed to all demands of New Delhi.

He outlawed the Razakars, fanatical bands of Moslem volunteers, and agreed to stationing of Indian troops in Hyderabad.

He also ordered his delegation to the United Nations in Paris to withdraw the case against India as "I want to begin a new chapter of friendliness with India."

The Nizam advised New Delhi that he would form a new government Saturday.

It was considered possible that Prime Minister Nehru would demand that the Nizam personally come to New Delhi for negotiations. In the past the Nizam has refused to leave his state for the talks and instead sent various ministers.

India had declared at the outset that she was marching into the princely state to put down anarchy.

(In Karachi, Pakistan, Hyderabad circles, it was said the Razakar organization had been disbanded and its leader, Fasim Rizvi, was expected to reach Karachi soon.)

Council Continues Palestine Truce

By Peter Kihss

Lake Success, Sept. 17 (NYHT).—Acting Secretary-General Benjamin Cohen declared here today the Palestine truce goes on, despite assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator, as Ralph J. Bunche, 44, grandson of an American slave, was designated chief-of-mission to boss truce observance until the Security Council and General Assembly act.

Cohen served notice the assassination "does not cancel the continuation of the truce," and called on all sides to observe the cease-fire ordered last July 15 by the Security Council under threat of sanctions.

Dr. Bunche, hitherto chief aide to Count Bernadotte, has been given "full authority until further notice," Cohen announced. There was every belief here that the council, convened for 3 p. m. tomorrow in Paris, would act to back up Bunche's authority.

Appointment of any new mediator, it was expected, would be put up to the General Assembly.

Bunche, director of the U. N. trusteeship division, himself escaped death with Count Bernadotte in Jerusalem today only by a "near miracle," George Barnes, chief of the U. N. press division and former chief officer with Count Bernadotte, said after a series of overseas telephone conferences among top U. N. officials.

"On every mission and every trip they had previously taken in Jerusalem and anywhere else," Barnes said, "Count Bernadotte, Dr. Bunche and usually one other person had traveled together in the first car.

"This time, Dr. Bunche remained behind in Rhodes to finish up Count Bernadotte's special report to the Assembly. Dr. Bunche arrived in Jerusalem on a separate plane—one hour after Count Bernadotte's death."

The U. N., incidentally, had insured Count Bernadotte's life for $104,000, it was learned here, and this amount will be paid to his widow, the former Estelle Romaine Manville of Pleasantville, N. Y.

U. N. Delegates Fear 'All Hell Will Break' Now

Paris, Sept. 17 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council has been summoned into emergency session tomorrow on the slaying of Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. Palestine mediator.

In their shocked surprise, several U. N. officials said about the same thing when informed of the mediator's death. The comment generally was:

"Now all hell will break loose."

The report on Bernadotte's months of mediation in Palestine arrived at headquarters almost simultaneously with news of his death.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie arranged to fly to Paris tomorrow from Norway. Acting Secretary-General Arkady A. Sobolev of Russia cabled instructions to Col. Aage Lundstroem, Bernadotte's chief of staff, to investigate the slaying and make a report to the U. N. as soon as possible.

Sobolev also cabled Dr. Ralph Bunche, principal secretary to the U. N. mission and right-hand man to Bernadotte, to assume full responsibility for the mediation group.

Bernadotte's 150-page report was brought to the Palais by John Reedman and Constantin Stavre-Poulous, members of his staff, to have it ready for the opening of the U. N. General Assembly Tuesday.

Allen Urges U. N. Support

The United Nations can only grow strong as it is given problems to deal with, as well as solid support, Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen told a meeting of the District of Columbia Citizens' Committee for United Nations Day yesterday.

Allen said he did not agree with one school of thought which in the U. N.'s early days feared to give the organization any tough problems which might stunt the growth of the "tender child," as they thought of it.

On behalf of Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Allen told the committee, which met in the District Building board room to plan for United Nations Day observances on October 24, that "it is fitting for the Capital of the United States to be in the forefront" in "demonstrating solid support for the United Nations."

Edgar Morris, District chairman for the observance, announced that President Truman has been asked to speak at a public assembly scheduled for 8:30 p. m. at Constitution Hall on United Nations Day, which will be the third anniversary of the effective date of the U. N. Charter.

A special play written for the occasion, with Helen Hayes as its star, will be staged and broadcast as part of the Constitution Hall program if arrangements can be made for prior rehearsals, A. D. Willard, jr., executive president of the National Association of Broadcasters, reported.

Bernadotte Murdered in Jerusalem

Paris next week. He said this report pointed to conclusions which might end the conflict.

Arrived in City Yesterday

He flew yesterday from Rhodes, his headquarters, to Damascus, the Syrian capital, where he announced his intention of trying again to demilitarize Jerusalem.

Discussing the second two-months-old truce in Palestine, which he negotiated, he told reporters in Damascus that Jerusalem was a "trigger happy" city where both sides shoot in the dark without knowing what they are shooting at.

He left Damascus this morning and arrived in Jerusalem at 11 a. m. He was killed six hours later.

En route from Damascus to Kollandia airport, just outside Jerusalem, Bernadotte showed a note which had been received by radio. It read:

"Urgent—inform all aircraft against landing Kollandia Airport. They will be fired upon."

"Do you want to jump now or be fired upon with us?" he asked with a smile.

"This is an obvious attempt to frighten me," he said. "I will not be frightened."

He said he believed the radio message came from an unidentified radio in Jewish-held Haifa which has been broadcasting false reports.

Sniper Hits Tire

When he climbed from the plane into his automobile an hour later a sniper's bullet thudded into the left rear wheel of the car. Bernadotte calmly got out and examined the spot.

"I don't mind being shot at by regulars," he said, "but not by irregulars."

The reporter wished him luck as he, Colonel Serot, Gen. Aage Lundstroem, his Swedish aide, and others got back into the car.

"I'll need it," he replied.

Colonel Serot was a quiet little man with close-cropped hair and a twinkle in his eye.

Dining a few nights ago in Amman, he insisted on ordering wines, beginning with the white, then red and finally topping with champagne.

"Tomorrow we go back to Jerusalem," he said. "There is nothing but trouble and sorrow there. This is our chance to enjoy ourselves."

Takes Bodies to Haifa

News of the assassinations first was telephoned from Jerusalem by American Commander Jack Seymour at the American School. He said:

"Count Bernadotte and Colonel Serot were killed in the Jewish sector this afternoon by men in Jewish uniform."

A message from the U. N. radio in Jerusalem tonight said the bodies of the Count and Colonel Serot would be taken to Haifa Saturday morning. The bodies will be taken to Rhodes later.

Bernadotte came to international attention in 1945 when he became a go-between with Henrich Himmler in the latter's efforts to negotiate Germany's surrender. He and Serot were the fifth and sixth foreign officials killed in Palestine.

Last May, United States Consul General Thomas C. Wasson and Chief Petty Officer Herbert Walker of the United States Navy were killed b snipers' bullets in Jerusalem.

Two French officers, while on a United Nations truce mission patrol, were killed near Gaza August 28.

Arranged Two Truces

Named U. N. mediator for Palestine last May, Bernadotte negotiated a 30-day cease-fire which went into effect June 8. He failed to arrange a permanent peace in that period, and fighting resumed.

Backed by a U. N. truce order, he arranged the second truce which took effect July 18.

In the Arab-held Old City of Jerusalem this afternoon he talked with Brig. Norman Lash of the Arab Legion and discussed the demilitarization of two buildings on the eastern slopes of Mount Zion.

He then crossed over to the Jewish side. While waiting to cross from the American College, eight snipers' bullets spattered on walls nearby.

He told reporters the Arabs shared his views that the only way to bring peace to Jerusalem was for both sides to withdraw their military forces. He said the Jews favored "other means" as more practical but had not come forward with concrete proposals.

"I have asked them for their ideas, but have not yet received them," he said.

Israel Buys Red Arms, Glubb Pasha Declares

London, Sept. 17 (AP).—Brig. J. B. Glubb Pasha said today that arms are being smuggled into Israel "from behind the iron curtain."

The British commandant of Trans-Jordan's army said the new Jewish state was using American dollars to buy the arms from Russia and her satellites and that the Soviet Union will seek to dominate the Middle East through Israel.

In Tel Aviv yesterday Colyigal Yadin, chief of operations for the Israeli army, said that "under the eyes of U. N. observers, Arab forces in Palestine have grown up during this truce—in men, armor, artillery, supplies and advanced fortifications." Yadin added that the two-month truce may come to an end in the very near future.

Stern Gang Said To Use Arab Agents

(This dispatch was written before the killing of Count Folke Bernadotte Friday.)

Jerusalem, Sept. 17 (AP).—A network of Arab terrorists working as Jewish fifth columnists under Stern group direction is spreading throughout the Middle East under orders to "kill the British when and where you find them," The group's commander said today.

Topping the list of British to be assassinated, he said, is Brig. John Glubb Pasha, who commands King Abdullah's Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan.

All references to Arab undercover agents working in Arab territory on behalf of the Fighters for Freedom of Israel—the Stern group—was banned by the Israel censor when this and other stories were submitted. This copy was transmitted through other uncensored channels.

The chief of the Arab Sternists is 28-year-old Sheikh Abu Ghosh, who wears the Stern emblem of a raised hand and Hebrew inscription, "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, may my right hand forget its cunning."

"Our purpose," said the Sheikh, "is to rid all the Middle East of foreign influences. In this we are full partners with Lachey (a nickname for the Sternists). It has become obvious that the only way to accomplish our aim is by means of terror.

"One of our first aims is to kill British officers in Arab armies when and where we find them."

ater judge advocate. He was not available for comment. Twelve other Buchenwald defendants convicted in war crimes trials also have had their sentences commuted.

Secretary of Defense James Forrestal said the matter was exclusively in Army hands. A spokesman for Secretary Royall said the matter is one exclusively within the jurisdiction of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor and theater commander in Germany.

Meanwhile, it was learned the Army here is preparing an announcement disclosing that clemency has either been extended or recommended for some 19 German war criminals sentenced to death for crimes at Buchenwald, Dachau at the massacre of GIs at Malmedy and at other places.

Jap Beneficiary Of GI Will Arrives

Easton, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP).—The parents of an American soldier who willed his $10,000 GI insurance for the college education of a Japanese welcomed the recipient today, a former kamikaze pilot.

With Mr. and Mrs Robert McC. Jonestone and their son, Bruce, as they shook hands with Robert Y. Nishiyama, was President Ralph C. Hutchison of Lafayette College, where the Japanese youth will enroll.

Marshall Terms Bernadotte Slaying 'Shocking and Tragic'

Secretary of State George C. Marshall yesterday called the assassination of Count Bernadotte "a shocking and tragic thing."

"His whole life has been one of assistance to mankind," the Secretary said. "During the past four months Count Bernadotte has been acting as the representative of the United Nations in an endeavor to bring lasting peace to Palestine.

"It is particularly tragic that he should have been shot down at a time when he had achieved such a great measure of success. I am convinced the world will demand that the work he so effectively commenced will be vigorously pursued.

"The world will bitterly regret his loss."

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott told reporters that the assassination would not affect American plans to give full recognition to the government of Israel.

A spokesman of the Israel mission in Washington said: "We are very shocked and very grieved at this dastardly act."

Czechs Demand Yugoslav Aides Be Thrown Out

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 17 (U.P.).—The Foreign Office today demanded immediate ouster of five Yugoslav Embassy officials and a number of Yugoslav industrial instructors.

A formal note climaxed the week-long Czech campaign against Yugoslav apprentices in this country who remain loyal to Premier Marshal Tito, despite his "excommunication" by the Communist Information Bureau. There are 2800 Yugoslav apprentices now learning trades here.

Czech police last week began rounding up pro-Tito apprentices, accusing them of "bloodily torturing" their pro-Cominform fellows.

Stassen Is Formally Named University Head

Philadelphia, Sept. 17 (AP).—Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania today formally elected Harold E. Stassen president of the university.

Stassen was chosen July 29 by a committee of the trustees. Today's election confirmed that action.

Succeeding Dr. George W. McClelland, who becomes chairman of the university, Stassen will take over his duties next Monday.

Today is Air Force Day.

At Air Force bases all over the world, the United States Department of the Air Force will commorate the first year of Air Force independence and 41 years of Air Force history.

The air arm aims to make today's observance "the most active and versatile demonstration of air power" ever witnessed in this country.

In the National Capital area, the USAF will hold "open house" at Bolling and Andrews bases with samples of its newest and most breath-taking equipment—"atomic-tested" Flying Fortresses, flying wing buzz-bombs, guided missiles with a television camera in the nose, the V-1 azon, JB-3 tiamat and many others.

There will be a jet plane mock battle; dropping of a new 30-foot rescue boat into the Potomac River; a 98-year-old cavalry veteran flying a B-17 by remote control; model airplane exhibition and an exhibit on "Survival in the Air Age," robot plane and glider landing and rocket-assisted take-off.

Bolling Base is providing parking space for 25,000 automobiles for its spectacular and free 8-hour show starting at 11 a. m. Andrews Base starts its show at 10 a. m. and ends it at 6.

Before the show starts, Capital Transit will run buses direct to Bolling Base from 10th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. During the show hours it will provide added service on its regular Bolling Base line (W-4) from Portland st. and Nichols ave. se. After the show there will be direct service from the field to 10th st. and Pennsylvania ave.

Extra WM&A buses will run to Andrews Base from 11th st. near D.

Bolling will stage 26 action events and numerous exhibits, including the landing around noon of two B-29 Superforts on a nonstop, 4219-mile flight from Furstenfeldbruck, Germany. Other Bolling events:

George Williams, 98, oldest resident of the Soldiers' Home, who became a corporal the year Custer was massacred and has never been inside a plane, will sit at remote controls and maneuver a B-17 over the base, after the radio-controled drone and a mother ship have made a pilotless flight from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., arriving here about 1 p. m. by GCA (ground control approach). The drone was used during the Bikini atom bomb tests to fly instruments into radioactive areas.

From 800 feet above the Potomac alongside the field, a 30-foot, all-metal rescue boat, the A-3, with watertight hatches, and with food, warm clothing and other provisions for 15 men, will be dropped from a B-29 by a giant parachute 100 feet in diameter.

Headquarters command bombers will attack the field and be met by Air National Guard fighters, with D. C. National Guard anti-aircraft simulating fire.

Ninth Air Force Fairchild C-82s will drop 20 picked paratroopers of the Eighty-second Airborne Division to assemble their equipment on runways and simulate attack.

The Bolling Balsa Bugs and their Civil Air Patrol associates will present a four-ring aerial circus featuring model planes attaining more than 100 miles an hour.

Bolling's commandant, Brig. Gen. B. M. Hovey, will rededicate Marks Air Force Base at Nome, Alaska, in a ceremony here in which he will pin the Gold Star lapel button on Mrs. Catherine Marks Kuch of Philadelphia, widow of Maj. Jack S. Marks, killed in action against the Japs in the Aleutians.

Hospitalized veterans from all area service hospitals will occupy special bleachers, attended by Red Cross representatives.

The show at Andrews Base will feature aerobatics and formation flying by jets and conventional planes; displays of B-50s, successor to the B-29, and other types of aircraft including helicopters, with public inspection of the base mess halls, chapel, gymnasium, fire station, post exchange and weather station. General Taylor, commanding, will greet visitors at 10 a. m., and Air Force movies will be shown free all day.

On the Washington Monument grounds, more than a dozen model airplane champions will stage a model plane three-ring circus from 2 to 4 p. m., sponsored by the Military Order of the World Wars and the National Capital Model Air Show Association. Veterans of Foreign Wars will stage an exhibition drill and the D. C. National Guard give a radar demonstration

Composer Free Of Madhouse, To Aid Others

Detroit, Sept. 17 (AP).—A young composer strode confidently from a mental ward today to try to help others who know the horrors of insanity.

He is Ernest Salisbury, 25, whose "Eloise Symphony," a score composed in a madhouse, recently was premiered by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Dr. T. K. Gruber, superintendent of the Wayne County General Hospital at suburban Eloise, authorized his release after he won his way back to sanity in an 18-month struggle.

Salisbury was picked up in a Skid-Row gutter and committed to Eloise as an alcoholic whose body and mind had collapsed.

"I feel fine," he said today as he walked through the gate. "I guess you might say I've found out that it is in the power of an individual to solve his problems."

Salisbury said he has a job with another Detroit institution. He will serve as an aid to psychiatrists in treating insane patients with music.

Funds for New Jet Bombers Approved, Symington Reveals introduced to the assembled air leaders.

He was First Lieut. W. M. Sandmeier of Westover Field, Mass.

Among the prominent officials at the dinner were: Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff; Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall; Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan; John R. Alison, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Air; C. V. Whitney, Assistant Air Force Secretary; Vice Admiral A. W. Radford, Vice Chief of Naval Operations; Joseph J. O'Connell, jr., chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; D. W. Rentzel, administrator of Civil Aeronautics, and a host of other military and civilian aviation leaders.

Forrestal fought and lost a battle with air power expansionists at the last session of Congress. He warned then that voting an additional 822 millions beyond the Administration's budget to start building a 70-group Air Force might upset the national economy and require renewed Government controls.

Recently there have been indications that the big air power bloc plans to fight any trimming of the Air Force budget requests and may ask Congress for an even further expansion of the Nation's aerial might.

Most of the Nation's leading airmen were present as Forrestal spoke. They were gathered to celebrate the first birthday of the independent Air Force and the first anniversary of unification of the armed forces.

Reviewing the past year, Forrestal reported that "no miracles have been accomplished" in unifying the services, but pointed out that none were promised. He answered critics of the lack of progress in unification as "cheerful disciples of morbidity" and "Cassandras who get their satisfaction out of negation."

"Definite progress" toward real unification has been made, the defense chief declared. He cited these results of his first year in office:

The so-called Key West and Newport agreements of the high command assigning specific responsibility to the individual services for strategic air and anti-submarine warfare.

Creation of unified commands in most of the global areas in which we have an interest.

Planning for civil defense.

Consolidation of the Navy and Air Force Transport Commands into one Military Air Transport Service.

Gains made by the Munitions Board in the field of procurement.

Forrestal repeatedly praised the cooperation between the Armed services and said that differences were merely "amiable debates between people who love one another."

Looking ahead, Forrestal declared that "dozens" of problems still must be met. He cited two.

One, said the defense chief, is the need of the Air Force to answer the problem of providing adequate airlift for moving vital supplies. The "notable achievement" of Operation Vittles in Berlin has emphasized and underlined the importance of this, he added.

The second, Forrestal declared, for the Air Force is to avoid sinking its procurement money in planes that will not be entirely modern. He added that he was confident the USAF is now handling this problem properly.

The Defense Secretary also struck back at those who object strenuously to controversy within the military high command. He cited numerous examples from history where the services fought over the tactical and strategic use of new weapons.

Northrop Unveals 2 Secrets: Jet Fighter and Sonic Plane

Hawthorne, Calif., Sept. 17 (AP).—Northrop Aircraft took the wraps off two of the Nation's most carefully guarded military secrets today—its XF-89, an all-weather fighter, and its X-4, a tiny sonic research craft.

No public announcement had been made of either craft until Wednesday, when the Air Force in Washington confirmed their existence.

Northrop, in its announcement today, said the XF-89 is "a high-speed plane equipped with eerie X-ray eyes capable of penetrating darkness, storm or fog" and has been undergoing secret flight tests for several weeks at the Muroc, Calif., Air Force base.

To Take Radar Observer

"Groomed to be successor to Northrop's Black Widow of World War II fame" the manufacturer's announcement said, "the XF-89 is slightly smaller but heavier. Its two jet engines nestle side by side in the under part of the fuselage. The swept-up tail gives the plane the appearance of an enormous black scorpion. A wafer-thin wing hints at tremendous speed."

A crew of two, pilot and radar observer, man the craft in a pressurized cockpit. It is 50 feet long and 15 feet high, with a wing span approximating 50 feet. Its gross weight tops 30,000 pounds.

Speed, range, ceiling and armament are undisclosed. The Air Force has ordered two experimental versions, and Northrop says it is designed "so that it could be put into production on short notice."

X-4 a Flying Wing

The X-4, powered by gas turbine engines, is capable of flights of considerably longer duration than rocket-powered planes such as the X-1, Northrop said. A flying wing type, it is described by the Air Force as "designed for stability and control investigations on swept-wing aircraft of the semi-tailless type for flight at high speeds."

Said Northrop's announcement: "It literally is a flying research center intended to place a pilot and elaborate instruments in the 'trouble zone' of sonic flight and keep them there long enough to find out a great deal more than is now known about this weird barrier to man's conquest of the air."

The X-4 has a gross weight of only 7000 pounds. Its wingspread is approximately 25 feet, its length 25 feet and the height of its vertical fin 15 feet. Other details were not announced.

Top G-Man's Condition Still Satisfactory

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was still ill at his home yesterday with bronchial pneumonia, but his office announced his condition was not critical or even serious.

The 53-year-old chief of the G-Men has been confined to his bed since Monday.

Airlift Concentrates On Coal Delivery

Berlin, Sept. 17 (AP).—The Americans "bombed" Berlin with coal today.

Lieut. Gen. Curtis LeMay, commander of the American Air Force in Europe, directed every plane in the airlift to carry coal and promised that 4000 to 5000 tons of the fuel would be dumped in the city in the 24 hours ending at noon Saturday.

The concentration on delivery of coal was ordered as a demonstration on the anniversary of the United States Air Force.

The one-day haul will be distributed at once to all families in western Berlin with two or more small children.

"Air ground crews and everyone else connected with the Berlin airlift will celebrate the day by making a maximum effort to carry a record number of tons," said LeMay.

In a prepared broadcast, which he will deliver Saturday, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander in chief in Europe, declared "the spiritual significance of an airlift which provides the daily bread of more than 2½ million people demonstrates our will for peace is profound."

He said it had won "the admiration of the people of the world who resent the threat of starvation being used as a political weapon."

Meanwhile the Western Allies tightened their counterblockade of the Russian zone.

District police at Helmstedt, major contral point between the British and Soviet zones, were increased by 100. Guards were reinforced at Soviet zones through the combined Anglo-American zones.

The counterblockade, shutting off badly needed Ruhr coal and steel to the Soviet zone, was clamped on late in June after the Russians had cut the ground routes to Berlin.

Some Germans have proved ingenious in evading the blockade, however, and some local traffic has been resumed. The new measures were expected to stop it.

Hope Is Still Held For Moscow Results

Paris, Sept. 17 (NYHT).—Official sources in Paris continued to hope today that something would come out of the Moscow talks on Germany and that it would not be necessary to break off negotiation and bring the issue to the United Nations.

The United States has proposed this alternative to the French and British governments unless there is a sudden end to the deadlock

To Floor Today

Queuille Wins First Fight on Finance Plan

By Walter Kerr

Paris, Sept. 17 (NYHT).—Premier Henri Queuille won his first parliamentary fight today to obtain approval of his new financial program when the finance commission of the National Assembly gave the bill its support by a vote of 22 to 13, with only four abstentions.

Only the Communists voted against the measure, which will go to the floor of the Assembly Saturday. There the real fight will begin.

In the commission, however, Socialists, Popular Republicans and Radical Socialists stuck together and authorized only slight modifications in the plan designed to raise some 80 billion francs in new taxes and cut state expenses by a little more than 20 billion francs before the end of the year.

It was a good day for Premier Gueuille's young cabinet. Many workers who went out on strike yesterday returned to work today. No disorders were reported and the franc gained slightly for the second day in relation to gold and hard currency.

Observers believed, nevertheless, there might still be trouble ahead. Employers warned the new taxes might mean higher prices. Labor unions continued to talk of higher wages. Most troublesome of all is the frail nature of the Government's parliamentary coalition. Premier Queuille will resign if his program is altered fundamentally.

In his opinion, the plan is nothing more than a first, necessary step towards stabilization, which must be taken if the treasury is to be authorized to use the blocked counterpart fund which represents the franc value of goods bought with dollar grants under the Marshall Plan.

The final decision is up to the United States by the terms of the agreement that established the fund. Americans feel it should not be released until some basic fiscal reforms have been put through.

The only serious strike here tonight is on the airline, Air France. Most of the workers at the Renault automobile factory are back at their jmobs.

Man, Woman in Plane Crash; 3 Bullets Found in Her Body

New York, Sept. 17 (AP).—Police pondered today the strange case of what appeared to be murder in the sky.

The bizarre affair came to light following the crash last night of a small plane carrying a man and a 28-year-old woman.

An autopsy disclosed three bullet wounds in the body of the woman, identified by authorities as Hannah Laufer.

Medical Examiner William Benenson said Miss Laufer had been shot and killed before the crash, in which the pilot, 31-year-old Jesus Meneau Monleon, perished.

The small, rented plane plunged to earth in remote marshland near the New York International Airport after several efforts to land both at International and La-Guardia fields.

In the wreckage police found a letter which they said indicated Monleon had planned at one time to kill Miss Laufer and then take his own life. Later, however, it indicated he had abandoned the idea and planned only to do away with himself, police said.

Assistant Medical Examiner Richard Grimes released these excerpts:

"For a while I thought that I should have to take you with me out of this world. I know now that is impossible. . . . It's quite late now. You are always in my heart and mind. Adieu, my dearest. . . . I'm taking leave of you."

Miss Laufer, seated at the right of the pilot during the flight, had been shot in the left side. Two steel-jacketed bullets and the fragments of a third were found in her body.

Monleon, a native of Spain, who, police said, was separated from his wife, was employed as a translator in the Army adjutant general's office. Miss Laufer also had worked there until last August.

Meanwhile, Monleon's wife, Lenore, a fashion model, denied she and her husband were estranged. "He was coming very soon to live in my apartment," she told newsmen.

Reds Reported Waging Fight In Sumatra

Batavia, Sept. 17 (AP).—Unofficial reports said today the Indonesian Republic's Communist troubles apparently had spread from Java to west Sumatra.

A Communist group was reported fighting units of the Republican army (TNI) in Tapanoeli. Fighting also was reported in Padang, Sidempoean and Sibolga.

The Indonesian news agency, Antara, said the three-way battle among Trotskyite and Stalinite Communists and army and navy units in Soerakarta had spread to the northeastern and southern sections of the Javanese city.

The four-day disturbances in Soerakarta apparently had paralyzed that No. 2 city of the republic, with martial law declared and schools, offices and shops closed.

Antara said the fighting there was "not serious but very confused."

Serious implications were seen in an Indonesian spokesman's statement here that the army units in Soerakarta were divided and the police were "too weak" to keep order.

Details were sketchy, but apparently the three-way street battle was being waged between the Stalinist Youth Movement, with some units of the Republican navy fighting at their side, against the Trotskyite Peoples Revolutionary Movement. Units of the Republican army, who recently were withdrawn from west Java, also were reported fighting against the regular Soerakarta division of the army.

The Republican spokesman here said this division was not fighting for the government but for its own purposes.

Too Many Kicks

Mule, Snake Fight Held Unlikely

Walnut Cove, N. C., Sept. 17 (AP).—Moby Dick, the kickingest mule in Stokes County, was due to meet a 20-foot boa constrictor in a battle to the death tomorrow night but the snake seemed to have vanished.

As protests raged against the proposed battle, carnival owner Bill Page was close-mouthed about where he had put his boa constrictor. Moby Dick grazed calmly in his pasture.

Walnut Cove—population 1300—was alive with rumors that the snake had been sneaked away for a private fight in the woods in case the law tried to prevent it. "Animal baiting" is illegal in North Carolina.

Throngs of farmers, their overalls bulging with profits from a successful tobacco crop, bet heavily on the fight.

Young Sheriff Chester J. Helsabeck, jr., 27, was letting the excitement simmer down, but his father, a doctor, promised there would be no fight.

"There won't be any mule hurt—or any snake, either," said Dr. Helsabeck. "If the sheriff doesn't feel that way, I'll see to it that he does feel like that."

Page muttered that a good boa constrictor costs at least $1000 plus import duty.

A carnival barker had advertised the boa constrictor as a "serpent that swallows animals." The snake obligingly ate chickens and a small pig. The farmers proposed Moby Dick, a stout 3-year-old black mule with no manners.

The betting started and a pot reported to total at least $5000 was soon riding on Moby Dick.

Page was confident earlier that the snake would twine around Moby Dick's legs so fast he couldn't kick and "break the mule's back in no time.'

New Syndicate Buys Cathedral Mansions Here

By S. Oliver Goodman

A syndicate made up of local investors has purchased Cathedral Mansions Center, large apartment building and shopping center at 3000 Connecticut ave., it was announced last night.

Leo M. Bernstein & Co., Washington real estate firm which handled the deal, reported title was transferred on Wednesday from American Investment Properties, Inc., former owner, to a new corporation known as "3000 Conn. Ave., Inc." The latter was organized by the investment syndicate department of the Bernstein firm.

Cathedral Mansions Center is described as a four-story and basement building, containing 162 apartments and six stores. It was completed in 1924 and was then considered the world's largest development of its kind, extending for one third of a mile along Connecticut ave. Its central unit fronts directly on the main entrance to the Washington Zoological Park.

The change of ownership does not affect the north and south wings of Cathedral Mansions which remain in the hands of American Investment Properties, Inc.

Norman Bernstein, one of the purchasing syndicate's leaders, did not disclose the purchase price but estimated total reproduction value at today's costs for land and improvements at more than two million dollars.

Bernstein added that the investment syndicate system used in the acquisition of Cathedral Mansions has been used previously by his firm. Other such transactions, he said, included Center Market City at 5th and K sts., District National Bank Building at 14th and G sts., the 11-story Park Lane Apartments at 21st and Pennsylvania ave., the Realty Building at 1424 K st., and the 150-unit Harvard Hall Apartments at 1650 Harvard st.

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in the week ended September 11 were 1 per cent below the comparable period last year. Largely responsible for the dip was the Labor Day holiday on September 6. This distorted the comparison with a year ago when Labor Day fell a week earlier. For the four weeks ended September 11, local store sales showed a 2 per cent increase over the same 1947 period, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported.

LANSBURGH FETE: Members of Lansburgh's 10-to-50-Year Club will attend the sixth annual reception and banquet tonight in the Mayflower. More than 200 are expected, including 149 members and 74 guests. Twenty-one new members will receive a badge symbolizing 10 years of continuous service with the Washington department store. Eight will be initiated into the 20-year group, three into the 30-year group and one into the 40-year class. Four members have a record of more than 50 years' service. New officers also will be installed, according to W. Arthur Gray, club president.

BANKS TO MERGE: Stockholders of three Westminster (Md.) banks approved yesterday a consolidation to be known as the Carroll County National Bank of Westminster. The new institution would start business October 1 if approved by the State banking commissioner and the United States comptroller of currency. It would have assets in excess of 14 million dollars. The three banks to be merged are the Westminster Savings Bank, the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank and the First National Bank.

TAXES: The American citizen trying to find money for the fall wardrobe will be little cheered to know that his tax burden now tops that of any other country. In the United States it was $313 in 1946 with Russia's $297 per capita second and the United Kingdom's $279 third. Figures for principal nations follow (as reported by the Institute of Life Insurance):

PER CAPITA TAX BURDEN

Wallace May Block Truman's N. Y. Bid

Truman Gay As He Starts Western Trip

nis, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; acting Mayor Markland Kelly, and Mrs. Thomas D'Alesandro, wife of the mayor.

Gov. William Preston Lane was away on a yachting trip in the Potomac with Gov. William Tuck of Virginia, but was represented by his aide, Louis O'Donnell.

The next stop was at Harrisburg, Pa., where a crowd of 150 gathered along the railroad tracks. Mr. Truman shook hands with members of the legislative committee of the Brotherhood of Firemen, and waved to the crowd.

"Good luck, Harry," a man yelled and the crowd took it up as the train was pulling out.

Late this evening, during a brief stop in Pittsburgh, Mr. Truman boarded the Red-White-and-Blue Freedom Train.

Speaking from the rear platform, he told a crowd of 300 that the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and other documents ought to convince anybody that our Government is "the best in the world."

He pointed out that, under the American system, the individual and his rights were held to be all important.

"There are other systems," he said, "that make the individual subject to the whims of the government."

Mr. Truman said he longed for the day when the United Nations would exercise in the world the same kind of government and authority the Federal Government exercises in the United States.

"We want peace in the world and justice for every individual and every nation in the world," the President said. "We fought for that ideal in two World Wars."

At the precise moment that Mr. Truman was saying this, a detail of soldiers moved a casket from a train on the adjoining track. The casket was wrapped in the American Flag, and contained the remains of a Yank who had fallen overseas and had been brought home for reburial.

Mr. Truman's buoyancy, his refusal to believe that he is whipped, is not merely a campaign attitude, according to those who know him well. They say he acts and talks the same way in his office at the White House.

On his last barnstorming trip, the one that took him to Michigan recently, he said something that he has often said in private conversation. Talking to a crowd in Toledo, Ohio, late at night on the way back to Washington, he said:

Plenty of Opposition

"In 1940 I had the bitterest campaign for reelection to the United States Senate that I think any man had in the history of this country.

"I had every newspaper in the State against me, the Governor of the State and his organization was against me, and at 11 o'clock that night all the radio broadcasters and the papers said that I was defeated by 11,000 votes.

"I went to bed, got up next morning and found out I had been nominated, which was equivalent to election, by more than 8000 voters.

"I know just exactly what it feels like to be defeated for major office. I don't want that experience this time. I would like to go to bed elected on November the second."

The last time President Truman crossed the continent, in June, it was stated that the trip was "nonpolitical." Mr. Truman himself laughed away that fiction before the first day was over.

Trip Strictly Political

This trip is strictly political, and one sign of it is the absence on the train of Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughn, the President's Army Aide, and the other aides.

Mr. Truman's entourage this time is made up of Miss Margaret Truman (the First Lady will join the party tomorrow in Des Moines); White House Secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Charles G. Ross; Clark G. Clifford, the President's counsel; Jonathan Daniels, a former White House secretary and now editor of the Raleigh News and Observer; Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, and three representatives of the Democratic National Committee, William Bray, William Boyle and Mrs. India Edwards, director of the women's division.

Others include Jack Romagna, a lightning-fast shorthand expert, who takes down the President's speeches; Miss Rose Conway, the President's personal secretary, and Dewey E. Long, the White House transportation officer.

Aboard also in addition to Secret Service men are 36 newspaper and magazine reporters, 8 radio reporters, 5 photographers and C. S. Linkins and other representatives of Western Union.

Margaret Sets Aside Career to Help 'Pop'

By The Associated Press

Margaret Truman has put aside thoughts of a vocal career until late fall in order to help "pop" in his campaign.

Margaret plans to go on all of her father's campaign trips. She left with the Truman party for the swing through the Midwest. Mrs. Harry Truman, in Independence, Mo., is joining them later.

Mr. Truman describes Margaret "as my greatest asset." He is obviously proud when crowds at station stops call out: "Where is Margaret?" and "How about a song?"

for "Marc," as they did in the case of Isacson, the fiery little hero of the Daily Worker might be on his way out. However, they didn't; and one reason they didn't, it appears, was that up until three weeks ago Mayor William O'Dwyer was playing political footie with him.

Marcantonio and Isacson are the only two members of the House of Representatives who wear the label of the American Labor Party which is Wallace's political arm in New York.

The ALP has 10 other candidates running for House seats here. Best known among them is Lee Pressman, who resigned as general counsel of the Congress of Industrial Organizations last winter and joined up with the Wallace forces.

Pressman, who has been described before the House Un-American Activities Committee as a Communist, is a candidate in the Fourteenth (Brooklyn) Congressional District. He is expected to be beaten badly, and for the same reason that Isacson already is counted as an also-ran.

Multer Considered "In"

The Democratic, Republican and Liberal Parties are supporting the Democratic incumbent, Representative Abraham J. Multer, whose seat Pressman covets. Multer, according to people who ought to know, is "in."

When Isacson won his House seat last February, filling a vacancy caused by Representative Benjamin J. Rabin's move to the New York Supreme Court bench, it was a terrible blow to the pride of Ed Flynn, Democratic boss of the Bronx.

This time Flynn was taking no chances, so he made a bargain with the Republican organization in the Bronx. The result was that both major parties got behind Isadore Dollinger, a member of the New York State Senate. The Liberal Party also indorsed Dollinger.

In the special election last February, the vote was very light except among ALP people in the Twenty-fourth Congressional District. That was one of the alibis for Isacson's victory.

What Isacson will be up against this time, if anywhere near a normal vote is cast, may be judged from the vote in 1946. This was as follows:

Democratic	39,316
ALP	24,249
Republican	16,931
Liberal	8,503

Consent Withheld

Representative Marcantonio, because of a law passed last year by the New York State Legislature, had to file this year strictly as an ALP candidate. The only way he could go after all three nominations, as he had done in the past, was for the political committees in charge of the Democratic and Republican parties to give their consent. This was not forthcoming.

Consequently, Marcantonio now finds himself with two opponents—John P. Morrissey, described by some as a Tammany wheelhorse and by others as a Tammany hack, and John Ellis, employe of a brokerage house, who is running on the Republican ticket.

In this case, the Liberal Party gave its indorsement to Ellis.

On the basis of past voting records, Marcantonio ought to lose. In 1946, he had both the Democratic and ALP nominations. Yet he won out over his Republican opponent, Frederick V. P. Bryan, by only 6536 votes.

Marcantonio got 14,888 votes on the ALP line that year, and 27,341 on the Democratic line.

Thus, viewed from a cold mathematical standpoint, it would look as if he couldn't hope for victory this time running strictly as an ALP candidate. The fact that some well-posted political analysts expect him to win is explained by two things:

1. The Eighteenth Congressional district in Manhattan, which Marcantonio represents on Capitol Hill, is in a class by itself. Running through East Harlem to Park ave., it is populated by an ever-growing number of Puerto Ricans (who have the right to vote), Italians, Negroes and Jews, and also a leavening of Irish, Germans, Hungarians, Czechs and Portuguese.

Most of them have little sympathy for Marcantonio's pro-Soviet views. What has caused them to send him to the House for six terms is his zeal in looking out for them; getting them on relief and helping them in other ways, just as Tammany used to do in its flush days when immigrants were pouring in from Ireland and central Europe.

2. Although Mayor O'Dwyer has declared war on Macantonio, there is a suspicion that Tammany elements will defy him and help the little man anyway. One hears talk that a good deal of money—some of it from underworld sources—will be passed. There are other explanations, too, but they are difficult to grasp unless one is familiar with the intricacies of New York politics.

Would Be Party Blow

If Marcantonio should be defeated, it would be a dreadful blow to the American Labor Party chieftains. ALP Executive Secretary Arthur Schutzer told this reporter that "Marc's" campaign was the "No. 1 priority battle" in New York State.

The feud between Marcantonio and Mayor O'Dwyer came out into the open on August 26. O'Dwyer declared that the ALP was "Communist-led," and announced that he would dismiss all city appointees that had been recommended by that party.

Marcantonio retorted that O'Dwyer was a "double-talking, double-dealing, double-crossing hypocrite."

He said that O'Dwyer had turned on him because he refused to make a deal on the office of surrogate, richest of all patronage plums in New York. He said that O'Dwyer had tried to get him to withdraw O. John Rogge, ALP candidate for surrogate, and agree on the nomination of Judge John A. Mullen for the post.

Replying to O'Dwyer's charge that the ALP was "Communist-led," Marcantoni said the mayor had joined the "wolf-pack of red-baiters." He went on to say:

"Let us see when the ALP is Communist and when it is not Communist according to Mayor O'Dwyer. It is not Communist when Mr. O'Dwyer met with me in Washington hotels and restaurants in 1945 to plan his nomination and campaign for election to the mayoralty. It is not Communist when the ALP supported him whole-heartedly for nomination and election . . . However, according to Mr. O'Dwyer, the ALP is Communist when it refuses to nominate Mr. O'Dwyer's candidate for surrogate."

Mayor O'Dwyer has denied all this, but Marcantonio's story is widely accepted in New York.

Getting back to Wallace's other candidates for House seats in New York, none of them is a betting favorite to win. However, some of them may succeed in driving out House incumbents.

Representative Andrew L. Somers, who has been in the House since the 1920's, has a fight on his hands this year in a Brooklyn district that has a large number of Negro and Jewish voters. The ALP is opposing him with Mrs. Ada Jackson, a Negro, who is an officer in the Young Women's Christian Association and a leader in the consumers' movement. He also has a Republican opponent—Arthur S. Hirsch.

Somers, who rarely has had trouble in the past is making an all-out campaign this year, and has started out with a visit to Palestine. Returning the other day on a Trans-World Airline plane, he said that as soon as Congress reconvened he would urge the executive branch of the Government to make a loan to the new state of Israel.

Representative Sol Bloom, another House veteran, also has opposition from the Wallace people this year. His ALP opponent is Eugene P. Connolly. Bloom is expected to win, but some of his friends are worried nevertheless. Republican opponent is Jules J. Justin, whom he defeated handily in 1946.

The ALP has been sharply criticized for giving its backing to Paul O'Dwyer, brother of Mayor O'Dwyer, who is the Democratic candidate in the Twenty-first Congressional District.

Unorthodox Republican

Representative Jacob K. Javits now represents this district in the House. He is a Republican, but a very unorthodox one, having voted against the Taft-Hartley bill and other GOP-sponsored measures.

ALP Secretary Schutzer, explaining the fight again Javits, said Javits had "a facade of liberalism" that made him more dangerous than if he were an outright reactionary. He was particularly critical of Javits in connection with the Mundt bill dealing with the Communist Party.

Javits voted against the Mundt bill. However, the ALP didn't like what it called his "double talk." Secretary Schutzer said Javits indicated that he might have voted for the bill if it could have been amended to suit his tastes.

Adolph A. Berle, former Assistant Secretary of State, who is chairman of the Liberal Party, described Javits as "a "good man," and said his party would go all out to help him in his battle with Paul O'Dwyer.

The outcome in the congressional fights will, of course, be determined to a large extent by the size of the vote for Henry Wallace.

The ALP is predicting that Wallace will get more than a million votes in New York.

Democrats and Liberal Party men like Berle think this is an extravagant estimate. They agree that Wallace was at his peak last February, and has since lost strength.

Berle declined to make a prediction on Wallace's vote, but one of his close associates in the Liberal Party thought it would run somewhere between a half million and 600,000.

Baby Whose Blood Runs Wrong Way To Have Surgery

Chicago, Sept. 17 (U.P.).—Seven-month-old Jo-Nell Frizen, whose blood runs the wrong way, will go to Johns Hopkins Hospital for a rare operation, her father said today.

Her great veins are transposed and her lungs do not purify the blood as they should, Bert Frizen, 26, said.

"It's a desperate operation, I guess, and the odds are against us," he said. "But they say she can live only 5 to 12 months without it."

Candidates Hit the Road . . .

2. Called the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator in Palestine, a "tragic loss," and voiced hope that his assassins will be captured and brought to justice. He said the Stern gang has been repudiated by the government of Israel and "this ruthless act will be condemned by the people of Palestine—Jew and Arab alike."

3. Issued a proclamation reaffirming faith in the United Nations as "a means of working toward peace" and making October 24 "United Nations Day in New York."

4. Received the support of Mrs. Robert L. Vann, president-treasurer of the Pittsburgh Courier, Negro newspaper. Mrs. Vann issued this statement: "The Courier believes that the Negro people would have the best chance of winning 'equal status' and of having their national interests protected through the election of Governor Dewey."

5. Welcomed support of Jesse Jones' Houston (Tex.) Chronicle. Said Dewey: "I am greatly pleased and honored by the support of Mr. Jones."

Stresses Need of Big Crops

Dewey's farm policy statement, issued following his long conference with Aiken and Hope, termed farm legislation enacted by the last Congress the American farmers "best guarantee" of GOP interest in their problem of producing food for the United States and millions abroad.

He said abundant food production is more than ever required "if we are properly to feed our people at home at reasonable prices and successfully wage the struggle for peace abroad."

"If American farmers are to be expected to produce the volume and quality of food necessary to meet these great obligations, they must be protected," he said.

Backs "Reasonable" Supports

The consumer and the farmer have an equal stake in sound Government support of farm prices. Tomorrow's meals cannot be left to chance and today's farming sets tomorrow's table. A firm program of price supports at reasonable levels will benefit both producers and consumers."

He stressed that the Aiken-Hope law recognized the need of such protection "for both farmers and consumers," saying the price supports laid down in it "guarantee farmers against undue losses when they produce enough to meet the needs of our consumers and industrial users."

Dewey said his talk with Aiken and Hope was in line with his long-standing policy of working closely with legislative leaders and promised this "policy of cooperation" will be continued after he is elected.

"Out of it . . . will come a well-rounded program which will be administered in the best interests of American farmers without regimentation or red tape," he said.

Governor Dewey will leave Albany Sunday afternoon and make his first major campaign speech in Des Moines, Iowa. He will speak in 11 other States on his route across the continent, up the coast, and back through the Northwest. The Missouri circuit, announced today, completes the itinerary and other trips are not yet definitely charted. Returning to Albany October 3, he told reporters he will remain here "for a few days, at least."

Democrat Sees Higher Illiteracy Under Dewey

Representative Kirwin (D., Ohio), chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, last night brought up the aid-to-education issue in a statement yesterday. This predicted "four years of mounting illiteracy if Governor Dewey should become President."

Kirwan said that in New York State, Dewey "continually pushed the State's responsibility off on the local governments." This means that the poorest communities have the poorest schools, Kirwan said, adding: "Nationally, the poorer States and communities suffer similarly from the hostility of the GOP Congress to increasing Federal aid to schools."

Governor Dewey, in a Parent-Teacher Week proclamation, said at Albany that "Government has no higher function than that of providing education." He called New York State's schedule of teacher salaries "the highest in the Nation."

Magnified Incident

The State Department has now made it plain that no issue of racial discrimination was involved in the exclusion of the Ethiopian Minister from a box at Constitution Hall earlier this week. The whole affair must be put down to misunderstanding. The American Association for the Advancement of Science, which sponsored the meeting, had arranged for some diplomats to occupy boxes and for others to sit in orchestra seats. It had assigned space in the latter section to the Ethiopian envoy, Mr. Ras H. S. Imru. Mr. Imru, however, went initially to a box, and when he was asked by an usher to move to the downstairs seat reserved for him, concluded that he was being segregated because of his dark skin and left the hall.

From the first, the inferences that a racial issue was involved did not ring true. Whatever the inconsistencies in policy on the part of the management of Constitution Hall, it has not been the practice to require racial segregation in the audience. To be sure, there are enough instances of bigotry in this Capital to warrant Mr. Imru in thinking that his treatment was discriminatory. It is regrettable that the affair was magnified into virtually an international incident by the way in which both the State Department and the AAAS rushed in with apologies before investigating the circumstances. There are plenty of abuses and improprieties in the District to be concerned about without manufacturing "insults."

Bottoms Up

In case you haven't been noticing—and there are doubtless many who prefer not to notice—the Washington American League Baseball Club has been accomplishing some rather remarkable things of late. At the time this item went to the printer Mr. Griffith's young men had managed to throw away 17 consecutive ball games, which is a feat more difficult than it may sound. No other Washington club was ever able to lose so many games in so short a time, not even in the days when the quality of baseball played in the Capital of this great Nation was a standing joke in all the vaudeville theaters of the land. "First in War, first in Peace and last in the American League," is what they used to say about it, and it was good for a laugh almost anywhere, except, perhaps, in Cincinnati, which was a little jealous of its own reputation in such matters.

Of course, there were Washington clubs in those days which somehow managed to be on the losing side of the box scores much oftener than Mr. Griffith's boys have been able to do this year. In 1904, for example, there was a club which by one device and another managed not to win more than 38 games all season, which sounds almost like a defiance of the law of averages. But that, if you remember, was the heyday of the first President Roosevelt, before the national fabric had been softened by too much luxury, and when Americans were making strenuous efforts in all forms of competition. In some cities, to be sure, there were envious rumors that Manager Donovan had accomplished this magnificent exploit only by padding the club roster with disguised Vassar girls, Association soccer players from the British Isles, expert in the art of booting balls and trained from childhood not to touch them with the hands, and a few veterans of the New York Knickerbockers and the Brooklyn Atlantics.

An even more vicious rumor said that enthusiastic hotelkeepers and restaurateurs in Washington, eager to see the home club lose at any cost, and no matter how unfairly, were in the habit of doctoring the food served to umpires with belladonna. All these absurd stories were fully investigated at the time and found to be without the slightest foundation. The 1904 Washington club established its record without violating any rule of American sportsmanship, and cases are even known of players, who having been called out on strikes, protested that they had been given an unfair advantage, and that the plate was not really as wide as the umpire was trying to pretend.

The truth is that judged by such standards the performance of the 1948 Senators has been brilliant but erratic. This perhaps is why the spectacular record they have created for themselves has not necessarily been more effective than the methods of the Chicago White Sox, who have gone about the business of losing ball games with a steady and plodding efficiency. Day in and day out the White Sox have managed to lose quite as many games as our flashier Senators have.

Still the season is not quite over yet. By the time this reaches your eye the Senators may have come within striking distance of the world's record of 20 consecutive losses established by the Boston Red Sox in 1906. But even if they have the bad luck to win a game or two too many, we shall nevertheless be proud of a gallant fight they have waged up to now. There are some who say what matters is not whether you lose or win, but how you play the game, and on this score our fellows have certainly nothing to be ashamed of.

Murder In The Temple

All the evil in the world is epitomized in the way that death has come to Count Bernadotte and the French member of his mission, Colonel Serot. Both were ambushed and killed presumably by members of the Stern gang in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem. That messengers of peace, symbols of the world's conscience, should be slaughtered in the City of Peace has about it a Satanic touch. It is almost as if Mephistopheles had sought by one stroke to crush man's faith in his own redemption, and had picked upon this devilish deed. It is, indeed, murder most foul. All the good and noble things in man were enshrined in the mission upon which Count Bernadotte was embarked. The terrorists have snuffed out two lives, but, in doing so, they have shot at a target which is nothing less than the values of our common society.

The sorrowing world has need to see that this wretched assassination misses the greater object that the murders were aimed at—that Faust does not play up to Mephistopheles. Dark forces are abroad in the world, and they must be resisted, or the Evil One will triumph. The Sternists seem to be his agents. They are a secret fraternity of assassins, mainly of very young men, who have sworn to take vengeance and exact retribution for persecution. They sprang out of the disturbances 10 years ago with the Arabs in Palestine—dissidents from those official Zionists who did not approve of retaliation against the Arabs. The Zionists formed quasi-military groups for purposes of self-defense, but the believers in direct action started Irgun Zvai Leumi, or National Military Organization, which, unfortunately, gained considerable support in the United States. The Sternists, founded by the Polish Abraham Stern, in turn seceded from the Irgun, and bound themselves to individual and sacrificial acts of murder. Four years ago the Sternist toughs horrified such friends of the Zionist cause as Mr. Churchill by slaying his great and good friend, Lord Moyne, British Resident Minister in the Middle East.

It was then plain, as we said at the time, that these youngsters had become fanatics in the Santayana sense—that they had forgotten their aims while redoubling their efforts. Violence has a way of becoming a thing-in-itself. It finds nourishment, moreover, when states are struggling to be born, as, for instance, in the early days of postwar Ireland. It did not last long in Ireland. How long in Israel? The Zionists failed to root out the terrorists in their midst, but the responsibility is inescapable on the new state of Israel, as the world's newest organized society. It is not enough to disown them, to say, as is often said, they are Communists working to promote disruption in the interests of Soviet Russia. They are enemies of the Zionist state as well as civilization.

In the meantime, Folke Bernadotte will be mourned for himself alone. At the age of 33, he "settled down," as the saying goes, marrying the daughter of the American asbestos king, H. Edward Manville. But it was the kind of "settling down" that brought with it transformation and conversion. He put his heart and energies into good works, first, as leader of the Swedish Boy Scouts and later as head of the Swedish Red Cross Association. Unselfishly he labored for humanity and for the sake of humanity. In World War II he undertook all manner of missions in the alleviation of the misery that the war had brought in its train. He organized help for refugees, mediated between different Red Cross associations, intervened in Germany to try to prevent pogroms, took upon himself humanitarian and peace assignments wherever situated. His epitaph might well be his own words: "Only those who are human can love and understand humanity." It is an epitaph that he of all persons would without doubt wish to leave to the world as his message. Truly he gave his life out of the same love of his fellows for which the Prince of Peace whom he served gave His life on the same sacred spot.

Apocrypha

It may be that historians will have a good deal of trouble over President Truman's quotation of a remark he says Marshal Stalin made at Potsdam. It was observed, according to the President's recollection, expressed in his speech Monday evening to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, that the Pope would not be happy about an arrangement affecting Catholics in eastern Poland. "And the generalissimo, the Prime Minister of Russia, leaned on the table," the President reported, "and he pulled his mustache and said: 'Mr. Churchill, how many divisions did you say the Pope had?'"

This is not the first time that this cynical view has been attributed to Marshal Stalin. And it may even be that Marshal Stalin is not the first military leader who has been charged with uttering the cynical phrase. Referring to the Soviet leader at Yalta, former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes wrote in his book, Speaking Frankly: "He is credited with having said at Yalta, when reference was made to the views of the Pope, 'How many divisions does he have?' The marshal did not make that statement at Yalta. But it was the yardstick he frequently used."

Of course, the marshal may very well have said at Potsdam what he did not say but was supposed to have said at Yalta. Perhaps, having heard the epigram ascribed to him, he appropriated it as his own and employed it on what seemed to him a suitable occasion. Biographers will no doubt differ about this interminably. But whether the remark is apocryphal or apodictic, whether it was first uttered at Yalta or at Potsdam or elsewhere, it indubitably expresses the Stalin philosophy. It represents, as Mr. Byrnes put it, the yardstick he frequently used.

Historic figures are sometimes quoted as having expressed ideas they undoubtedly held in language they never actually employed. Thus, to take another example, the late Eduard Benes had a lot of observations attributed to him, and we quoted one the other day for which we were scolded. Another phrase is now being attributed to him, viz, "Do not resist," when the Soviet gobbled up Czechoslovakia. But whether the precise words were actually uttered by him or not, there is no room for doubt that they reflected his sentiments at the time. It is equally certain that Marshal Stalin at least meant what he is reported to have said.

Hazardous Occupation

David E. Lilienthal's authoritative voice has now been added to the chorus of those pointing out that irresponsible vilification of Government servants presents a grave threat to the national security. "Public employment," he said in an address on Thursday, "has become, in a very real sense, a hazardous occupation. The possibility of public pillory, so often unjustified and beyond immediate redress, does indeed cast a shadow of fear over public service. . . . If such damaging and painful occurrences should become common, then inevitably self-respecting men will refuse in ever-increasing numbers to work for their Government, and this Government, therefore this Nation, will be in grievous trouble."

Mr. Lilienthal is no ivory tower idealist. He recognizes the need for rigid precautions against the employment of untrustworthy persons, the importance of "guards and fences and investigators." He is aware, too, that "the best procedures in the world cannot possibly provide an absolute assurance against unfair criticism or attack," that occasional unfair criticism is "part of the price we pay for a free society." And he urges men to run this risk in "the faith all of us share that democracy is worth more to us as individuals than the price—the not inconsiderable price—that it sometimes exacts."

The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission is himself an exemplar of this faith. He has endured abuse that would have robbed most men of all taste for public service. Indeed, even his patently earnest and honest remarks on Thursday received a quite characteristic rejoinder from Representative McDowell of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. "I just don't think he is telling the truth," said this expert on Americanism. "It's a 100 per cent political statement." The bellow, which Mr. Lilienthal will no doubt weather with equanimity, has the virtue of making clear whose ox was gored.

The trouble is that not all men of high technical skill and intelligence possess Mr. Lilienthal's extraordinary hardihood. Many whose services could promote the national security will be kept from volunteering them by the fear of calumny. Many others will be kept from serving, although willing to work, by irresponsible attacks upon their reputations. Yet these are men whose singular knowledge and aptitude are urgently needed to keep America in the forefront of atomic progress. Mr. Lilienthal was quite right in asserting that "the notion that our atomic energy leadership depends upon a secret formula locked in a vault is nothing less than an effort to perpetrate a gigantic hoax upon the people of the United States. Our leadership depends upon developing new knowledge, and the new applications of that knowledge."

Warren's Bow

Gov. Earl Warren's speech officially opening the Republican campaign at Salt Lake City Thursday was refreshing because of its lack of platitudes. Absent were the usual who-struck-Johns of partisan politics. Governor Warren admitted that the incumbent Democratic Administration is not to blame for all the worries that beset the American people. He recognized that there are no cure-alls for many of these problems. Instead of berating the Democrats, he pitched his plea for votes on the contention that the Republicans can provide fresher leadership, better housekeeping and more coordination.

The very novelty of this positive approach is likely to give it strength. The maturity of thought which it reflects is a welcome contrast to the reckless charges that too often spatter the headlines during presidential campaigns. There is something that breeds confidence about a man who is willing to recognize that "good Americans are to be found in both parties . . . There are progressives and conservatives in the ranks of both . . . Party affiliation does not change human instincts, or affect loyalty to country. . . ."

It is easy to see how Governor Warren has gained his reputation as an astute vote-getter. He opened his talk with some well-chosen words of praise for the pioneer spirit that has made Salt Lake City a garden spot—a sure formula for a good reception. He was even aided by the weather. In rain-parched Ogden he made a plea for more water for the West. Immediately it began to rain. If he can continue to demonstrate such prowess as a rainmaker, he may prove invincible.

"De Gaulle's Ideas"

It would be unfortunate, I think, if your readers were left with the impression of General de Gaulle created in H. L. Gueydan's letter of September 5. As a result of my own contacts with the French, among them De Gaullist partisans, in 1947, I should advise considerably greater caution in viewing the general and his ambitions than this eulogy allows.

De Gaulle and the RPF, as is well known, are looked upon with suspicion and even fear by all the other French parties, and the reason is that in the chinashop of France's fragile political relations, De Gaulle has been assuming the role of a bull. The very delicate balance of political forces, for which French voters are wholly responsible (and which the difficult and inadequate constitution accurately reflects), is the basic fact of French politics today. In his many speeches, De Gaulle has promised to trample rather recklessly over this counterpoise.

The question is not at all whether he has "totalitarian ambition." He is not widely accused of it. The question is whether, given his present mentality and his approach to French problems, he would not inevitably be driven in that direction were he to come to power.

In the context of France's complex party relations and relentless economic problems, what does rule "above party, above politics" mean? What would happen if the general, as he continually suggests, were to attempt to whip into line the strongly organized French labor movement (of both wings), which is overwhelmingly against him and for which he has indicated no program whatever that tallies with its demands?

What of De Gaulle's mentality? I can only say that in conversations with De Gaullists, and especially with braintruster Andre Malraux, I was chiefly struck by the absence of any realistic concern with the economic and social issues to be faced and a marked proclivity for towering abstractions and mysticisms.

The point, of course, is that the man-on-horseback (to wrench the metaphor)—even one willing to ride off to meet "the hordes of the Kremlin"—is not at all what we want in France. Such a man would be way out of step with the unmounted governments of the rest of western Europe, and runs the danger of contributing, like Franco, only embarrassment to the Western democracies.

Stalin's Old Gag

The front page of the September 14 issue of The Washington Post contained a story to the effect that at the Potsdam meeting the Prime Minister of Great Britain remarked that certain plans with respect to Poland would not be pleasing to the Pope, whereupon Premier Stalin in facetious manner raised the question as to the number of military divisions the Pope has.

Permit me to direct attention to the condensed form of an article on the subject of "Joseph Stalin" in the July, 1948, issue of the Reader's Digest. This article was written by Louis Fischer, who was reported as being the author of numerous books pertaining to Russia, and as having resided in Moscow for a period of 14 years. Page 134 of this magazine contains the following statements:

"In 1905, during the popular upheaval that shook Russia, Stalin declared at a worker's meeting, 'What do we need to really win? Three things: First, arms. Second, arms. Third, arms and arms again.'

"This habit of mind persisted. In May, 1935, Premier Laval of France, negotiating with Stalin in Moscow, pleaded for better Soviet treatment of Roman Catholics. 'It would help me so much with the Pope,' Laval explained.

"'Oho,' said Stalin, 'the Pope! How many divisions does he have?'"

Although the Russian dictator is cold and hard, as his chosen surname is supposed to indicate, apparently he occasionally exhibits a slight sense of humor, and it would seem that the Potsdam episode gave Joe an opportunity to spring one of his "old gags."

Correction

The letter of September 17 entitled "Suffering Lessened" appeared over the erroneous signature of Mrs. M. L. Wade. The correct name is Mrs. M. L. Walde. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Educational Dualism

Figures on D. C. school enrollment are encouraging in that they show that while the Negro is only about 28 per cent of Washington's population, he represents 46 per cent of the school enrollment. Further, a study of the report reveals a 2 per cent gain over 1947 in the Negro portion of the Negro-white ratio for school enrollment.

This 2 per cent gain may have well wiped out equality of school facilities available to white and Negro students if such existed during the past school term.

The reported decrease of 2102 students in white enrollment has contributed to unequalization of facilities between white and Negro students by inversely proportionally increasing facilities available per white student.

This educational dualism is too costly and the people of the District are poor. Vast areas of their land are in nontaxpaying holdings; there is little industry to be taxed; the income of service establishments is not large enough to afford much revenue; the total assessment of such establishments is small; Virginia and Maryland citizens take much from Government employment; Congress is stingy and tyrannical and the people are brutally beaten back from the polls. Educational dualism in the District is too costly, considering the District's economy.

"Disorder In Society"

The censorious comments directed against the representative body of Protestant Christians of the world in your editorial of September 7 are dreadfully out of place for the following reasons:

First, you call the words of the resolution "semantic nonsense." If you are going to quibble about the usage of the words "communism" and "capitalism," how can you defend the continual misuse of the word "communism" in the American press?

Everyone knows, or thinks he knows, what is meant when the newspapers say "Red," "Communist" or "Communist ideology." We use the word with about as much accuracy and favor as apparently the Soviet press uses the term "capitalism." What other words can be used to convey ideas to an American public, since all it knows is what it reads in the papers? After all, what was written was for general and lay consumption, so simple that there should be no misunderstanding even by newspaper editors.

In the next paragraph you begin in lofty vein to talk of "spiritual terms." Unfortunately the paragraph loses its spirituality by the end of the second line, and becomes merely a statement of opinion in most worldly and material terms. "Soviet Russia . . . heads aggressive movement . . . would condemn individuals to slavery . . . Opposing movement . . . insists . . . individual is master of state."

I might, if I were not very well informed, go along with you thus far. But your last sentence will not hold water, because it could apply to either movement. "It is only out of the sheer necessity of self-defense that the movement has become a countercrusade aimed at developing a unity among all such like-minded peoples." Here is where I become confused if I try to be open-minded, and to learn facts which I would interpret from a set of values taught by Jesus. We will never have peace if we keep yelling childishly, "They started it!"

Your next paragraph removes you entirely from your assumed godly perch. "The church . . . gives the impression that it wants to stay above the battle instead of joining it." This is a complete giveaway. You know not the first thing about spirituality, Christian principles, the place of religion in society, or the capacity of man to receive enlightenment directly from God, if he asks for it.

Why would an organization which preaches the brotherhood of man, and at least tries to live according to such a doctrine deliberately set brother against brother and fan the flame of temporal and political differences, when its whole being is dedicated to the achieving of common ground between all peoples, regardless of economic policies, and to the positive pursuit of peace, not through appeasement but through casting the beam from its own eye before presuming to sit in judgment on its neighbor?

The Christian reader pretty well has your number by the time he comes to the last paragraph, and is very skeptical when you say: "To be sure, the United States doesn't seek to bridle incentive, and so kill the goose that lays the eggs; and a hungry world has reason to be grateful that it doesn't." The Christian knows very well that often the word "selfishness" is more accurate than "incentive" and that you have forgotten all about the spiritual approach that the church represents when you say "a hungry world." As hungry as the world is, there is a hunger and thirst other than the physical, and far more in need of gratifying. The churchmen are trying, ever so humbly, to point this out.

If any further proof is needed that the writer of the editorial is in complete ignorance of everything the council stood for this should clinch it: "The churchmen ought to know whereof they speak before they embark on ex cathedra utterances about the disorder in world society." Something tells me that the writer of that editorial needs to do a little boning up himself.

Washington Calling

Patience And Caution

IN FACING Moscow through the long, wearisome negotiations over the skeleton of Berlin, the three Western powers—France, Britain and the United States—have presented a united front. The reality of that united front has been important in the contest between East and West.

While the front has been a fact beyond dispute, there have nevertheless been differences of opinion and attitude. These have become sharper as the duel of nerves with Russia approaches a showdown or something very much like a showdown.

Between the lines of the speeches made in the House of Commons in London the other day you could read the story of those differences. And, significantly, the Conservative Anthony Eden was in agreement with the Labor Foreign Minister, Ernest Bevin. Here was one of those long projections of British policy that rises above party politics.

Eden and Bevin said, in effect, that Britain must form the nucleus of a third force that would serve as a balance between the colossus of the USSR on one hand and the colossus of the USA on the other. Naturally, it was not put so bluntly, but that was the import of it.

These speeches may have been carefully timed in the aftermath of the transatlantic argument over procedure on the next stage of the Moscow negotiations. That argument between London and Washington went on over the clattering tele-com machines that are such a poor substitute for face-to-face and voice-to-voice exchange of ideas.

THE BRITISH reaction produced a gust of irritation in some quarters here. One heard again that unhappy word "appeasement."

Whether the irritation is justified is hard for anyone on the outside to say. American policy-makers have seen the immediate future course of the Russian duel in terms of final definitions and a schedule that would be gone through with in spite of any and all risks. The biggest risk is, of course, the risk of war.

The British did not see it that way. They have realities of their own, and one of them is the reality of geography. In the last war, Britain came within a hair's breadth of destruction, and that is a fact not quickly forgotten.

Another reality close at hand for the British is the sad plight of France. The third of the Western powers in the united front cannot find a stable government among bitterly warring political factions.

So the British prescription was for more patience and more caution. It is hard to quarrel with that prescription short of accepting the terrifying logic of the weapons of mass death that science has put into the hands of ignorant, childlike mankind.

SOME Britishers accept this logic. Thus, Bertrand Russell, the distinguished philosopher, said in a speech in Holland a year ago that the only chance of saving Western civilization lay in attacking Russia within a year and a half before the Russians had the atomic bomb.

For the most part, however, the British do not follow that kind of logic. They believe in compromise, in yielding a little under pressure if that is necessary to maintain a final position. Often this has worked in the past. In some instances it has been disastrous. For such an approach, timing is all important.

In recent days the note sounded by American policy-makers has emphasized caution and patience. Gen. Lucius Clay in Berlin said that he did not believe war was around the corner.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall talked to a group of leading publishers and editors whom he had asked to come to Washington for a conference this week. As he has done in public statements, he stressed the need for a calm approach to the East-West contest. Inflammatory talk about the inevitability of war certainly has not helped the negotiators. That kind of talk has made a good sounding board for Soviet propaganda.

The East-West contest might conceivably go on for years, with recurring periods when it is acute. The difference between London and Washington is not a basic one. If a showdown comes in spite of all patience and all caution, then the British would be with us. But the profound hope on the other side of the Atlantic is that a little more holding back and a little less arbitrariness may prevent a showdown, and it is hard for the ordinary illogical human being not to share that hope.

Rail Fare Increase

I submit that the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission permitting round-trip fares on journeys of 225 miles or less to be sold henceforth at two times the one-way fare was inconsistent with the policy laid down. That policy stated that round-trip fares "would be increased generally in proportion with" one-way fares.

The increase granted was 20 per cent; the actual increase in New York-Washington round trip fare (coach) is 35 per cent. I submit that for the passenger to pay the difference between a 20 per cent increase and a 35 per cent increase is too high a price for the commission's inconsistency to be justified.

Russian Aims

By Mark Sullivan

Chaos Rather Than Arms

ABOUT THE outcome of Berlin, as a detached incident, no person in Washington, however thoroughly informed, can have any judgment better than his personal guess. The answer lies in what Winston Churchill once alluded to as the mysterious and enigmatic minds of the Russian heads in Moscow. About the whole broad policy and attitude of Russia, of which Berlin is the presently critical example, there is a belief held by many which may be stated thus:

Sullivan

Russia will prefer not to initiate war with us, not to pull the trigger. And Russia will prefer to stop short of inciting us to pull the trigger, in Berlin or elsewhere. The broad and permanent purpose of the Russian heads is to destroy throughout the world the system of free enterprise and privately owned industry which it invidiously calls capitalism, to the end that this may be supplanted by communism.

To the Russian heads is attributed an expectation that this can be accomplished without making war. To keep us anxious about war, to oblige us to keep prepared for war, can serve the Russian purpose as well as war itself. The immense expenditures we are thus obliged to make, together with other expenditures for help to European peoples which we are obliged to keep up as long as peace is not assured —these expenditures, the Russian heads hope, may with other conditions bring about violent inflation and economic paralysis. This would lead to chaos, and it is chaos, rather than war, that the Russian heads rely on and prefer.

Chaos rather than arms is the chief Russian and Communist weapon. To continue the chaos that followed the war in Europe, and to create new chaos elsewhere, is their technique. Our realization of this was long delayed. For two years following the end of the war, we went on the assumption that Russia would cooperate with us toward bringing about the economic restoration of Europe as a means toward peace and a unified world. Realization that this was not so was marked by the statement of Secretary of State Marshall in the spring of 1947, following failure of attempts at agreement and cooperation with Russia: "I was forced to the conclusion . . . that the Soviet government either did not desire such a pact or was following a course calculated to delay any immediate prospect of its adoption."

The world-wide scope of the Russian drive for chaos was brought to attention this week by startling statements of British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Anthony Eden in the House of Commons, about the Communist drive in southeast Asia, specifically Burma and Malaya. The fact is that the whole of eastern Asia, excepting Japan and the Philippines, is under stress and turmoil caused by communism. The British official statement made the point that the purpose of Communist chaos in southeast Asia is not merely local; it is for the effect on the capitalist system everywhere in the world which can be accomplished by interruption of the export of raw materials which southeast Asia produces.

IN ONE extremely important quarter of the world, western Europe, the Russian drive for economic chaos is being checked by our aid. After we realized that the Russian purpose in western Europe was economic chaos, we set up the Marshall Plan, later known as the European Recovery Program, to enable the western European countries to achieve economic recovery.

In the debates about this in Congress it was agreed upon and emphasized that the economic recovery, if it was to be a dependable check to communism, must be a recovery of private industry. To this end the directors of our ERP operations have brought it about that most of the recovery we have facilitated is in the form of transactions between privately owned business institutions in the European countries and privately owned American institutions. We have discouraged purchases of American goods by European governments as governments and on the other hand have encouraged purchases by private business in Europe from private business in America. Our ERP expenditures in Europe are more and more being used for the fostering of privately owned industry.

To the extent that this is successful, and that the peoples of western Europe become economically healthy under it, the Russian drive toward economic chaos as a means of bringing communism, is frustrated.

'Color' Is Denied as Issue In Envoy Seating Incident

The State Department said yesterday that "color" had nothing to do with the incident that prompted the Ethiopian Minister to leave Constitution Hall Monday night.

The department sent a note to the Ethiopian legation saying it is "of the greatest regret to the Government of the United States" that the incident occurred, and that investigation showed it to have been due to a mistake in seating arranagements.

The incident occurred at the opening meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science when the minister, Ras Imru, was first seated in a box, and was later asked to take another.

"Insult" Protested

Imru left the hall. The Ethiopian note to the department said it was "in protest against such an insult."

Haddis Alemayehou, first secretary of the legation, said the department's reply had been received and was "under careful consideration. It would be premature to comment at this time."

The State Department note explained the confusion in seating arose because the minister took a seat in a box, although he held a ticket for a seat on the floor of the hall. It said Imru was asked to move by an usher who expected the arrival of the person to whom the box had been assigned.

The department noted that several chiefs of foreign diplomatic missions, other than the Ethiopian Minister, were assigned orchestra seats, though he apparently was not aware of this. It said that if the department had been consulted in advance, it "most certainly" would have recommended that the "minister and all other chiefs of mission be assigned to boxes."

Michael J. McDermott, department press officer, told newsmen "color had nothing whatever to do with it. The minister just got into the wrong seat.

"Also, there was a difficulty of language, as he does not speak much English." "But," he said, as the note makes clear, "we are very regretful that it happened."

The Ethiopian note had asked the United States Government to "take appropriate measures to repair the damage and to punish the offender."

The State Department's note said the circumstances had been investigated with the view of taking "appropirate" action. It noted that the meeting was held in Constitution Hall, a private auditorium owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and under the auspices of a private organization, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which has already offered its full apologies.

Wallace Hits War-Scare 'Pork'

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace tonight lashed out at what he termed a "Washington war-preparations-pork barrel."

The Progressive Party nominee for President of the United States asserted that both Republican and Democratic politicians were "promoting" a military program, and predicted another "artificial war scare" would interrupt United States-Russian negotiations.

His speech was prepared for a political rally in Edgerton Sports Arena, sponsored by the Monroe County Wallace-for-President Committee.

Speaking in the headquarters city of Eastman Kodak Co., Wallace attacked the War Munitions Board, headed until yesterday by Thomas J. Hargrave, Kodak president, as "part of the apparatus set up by Harry Truman and Arthur Vandenberg and James Forrestal to militarize the country."

Declaring that campaigns for lower prices, for civil rights, for more homes, for negotiations to end the cold war "bring results," Wallace added:

"But we cannot win complete or decisive victories until we get at the root causes. One of the root causes is the Munitions Board headed up until yesterday by the president of Eastman Kodak, a director of the NAM, Mr. Thomas J. Hargrave.

"The Munitions Board is composed of directors of corporate wealth and military men. This apparatus is the heart of Government today. It authorizes vast profits for the corporations which participate, and makes easy the continual increase in prices which we all feel. And it does these things as part of a process of preparing for war.

"I call this apparatus the Washington war-preparations pork barrel," Wallace declared. "It is a bipartisan pork barrel, because Republican and Democratic politicians share equally in promoting it. And nobody asks the men from the corporations who manage it whether they contribute to the Republican campaign funds or the Democratic campaign funds."

Wallace said the State Department "invented the diplomacy of crisis" as part of a plan of "the sponsors of World War III to scare the people into accepting their program."

"I must warn the American people that there are those in our country who do not want negotiations with the Russians to be successful," Wallace added.

To get its foot in the door for new construction a year from now, the board in its estimates for capital outlay also is asking for $203,910 to prepare plans for 11 new school projects. Of this planning money, $70,650 would be spent for white schools and $133,260 for Negro schools.

"Urgent" Projects Listed

Described by Dr. Corning as "most urgent," the projects are:

An addition to the Negro Browne Junior High School, completion of Burdick Vocational School, an 8-room addition to the Davis Elementary School; addition to the Negro Dunbar High School; addition to the Negro Francis Junior High; 8-room addition to the Keene Elementary School; new Negro junior high school in the vicinity of Pomeroy rd. and Douglas pl. se.; 8-room addition to the Randle Highland's Elementary School; 8-room school in the vicinity of River Terrace ne.; completion of the second floor of Negro Slowe Elementary School, and replacement for the Negro Terrell Junior High School.

58 New Employes Needed

The increases in general are to cover higher costs of supplies, promotions and salary increases required by law, and salaries for 58 new employes assigned to new schools.

Included are a principal and assistant principal for the new Sousa Junior High School, principals for the Miller Junior High and Nalle Elementary Schools and 16 teaching positions. Other new employes are clerks, engineers and custodians.

An added expense is $16,519 to conduct a school census in 1950 of all children between the ages of 3 and 18.

Would Complete Rifle Range

Out of the $1,289,800 for repairs and maintenance, the board would spend $18,000 for installing home economics equipment at Eastern and Roosevelt High Schools; $3500 for completing a rifle range at Wilson High School; $5000 to turn two classrooms into an assembly room at Orr Elementary School, and $15,000 for alterations to permit reopening of the summer elementary school auditorium.

Funds also were requested to begin a three-year program for installing inclined floors in junior high school auditoriums, for a 10-year program of improving lighting in older school buildings, and for a four or five-year program to make major changes required under the new District fire code in 86 buildings.

Progressives' Slurs Assailed by Warren

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 17 (AP).—In a fighting mood, Gov. Earl Warren tonight accused American-born "Progressives" of using "every device known to conspiracy to discredit American institutions and divide the people in the 1948 elections.

The Republican vice presidential candidate did not mention Henry Wallace's Third Party Progressives by name, but by implication he left little doubt of the identity of the target of his attack.

Basing his prepared speech tonight on the occasion of Constitution Day and the 161st anniversary of the United States Constitution, Warren told a Republican rally at Memorial Hall it was "about time that we start talking . . . about what is right with America.

"A stealthy appeal, under the guise of showing what is wrong with America, is being made to the credulous, the cynical and the weak. Neighbors are poisoned against neighbors.

"Races are being inflamed against races. Classes are being created and arrayed against each other. Every device known to conspiracy is used to discredit our institutions and divide our people.

"Unfortunately, even some who were born in this country have become enamored of these false gods and are preaching the doctrine of despair."

These native Americans, Warren declared, "have insinuated themselves into this campaign and are hiding under the wholesome name and banner of 'Progressives.'

"They tell us that everything is wrong with America, that it has failed and that it has no future under our systems. Isn't it about time that we started talking to the American people about what is right with America?"

It was the second major address of Warren's transcontinental campaign swing. Its mood was in marked contrast to that displayed by his Salt Lake talk urging political tolerance this year in the interest of national unity.

Warren asserted communism must be stamped out of Government.

"I want to say that in these critical days the watchword of our Government should be—'None but Americans should be placed on guard,' and that is exactly what Tom Dewey (Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican standard bearer) will do."

The California Governor came here after a day of travel in which he addressed quiet, friendly crowds about his train at Glenwood Springs, Malta, Salida and Canon City in Colorado.

At the little station stop of Malta, four miles from the historic Colorado mining town of Leadville, the Republican vice presidential nominee told an applauding, smiling crowd "we Westerners have to stick together."

Warren called for conservation of the West's resources, and development of its hydro-electric power and reclamation.

Warren's trip was geared to Colorado's hot State campaign in which a United States senatorial seat and the governorship is at stake.

United States Senator Eugent D. Millikin (R., Colo.) boarded the vice presidential train at Glenwood Springs with Representative Robert Rockwell; Will F. Nicholson, candidate for Democratic Senator Ed Johnson's seat; and David Hamil, opposing Democratic Governor Knous in November.

Senator Millikin predicted Colorado would go Republican this year by "75,000 to 125,000."

Netherlands Envoy Talks of Red Moves

The Netherlands' Foreign Minister, Mark Stikker, spent two hours at the State Department yesterday discussing what he called "the whole Communist movement in the Far East" with Secretary Marshall and other officials. At the embassy it was described as a "general discussion," but officials declined to go into details about it.

Jesse Jones' Paper Urges South to Vote for Dewey

The Houston Chronicle, published by Jesse H. Jones, a Cabinet member in the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's Administration, yesterday announced its support of the Republican presidential ticket of Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren.

Calling for the election of New York's Governor Dewey as President and California's Governor Warren as Vice President, the Chronicle said in an editorial that "it should be obvious to all thinking people that we need a change in our national Administration."

The editorial was made available to the press here by the Washington bureau of the Chronicle.

Asks Break From Tradition

Jones served for 12 years in the Roosevelt Administration, as Reconstruction Finance Corporation Chairman, Federal Loan Administrator, and Secretary of Commerce. He was ousted from the Commerce position and the Cabinet in 1945 to make way for the appointment of Henry A. Wallace, after Wallace had failed to win renomination for Vice President.

Stating its belief in a two-party system, the Chronicle said:

"We Democrats can no longer discharge our responsibilities . . . by taking refuge in the fact that we have always been of a particular political faith; that we are Democrats, and can vote no other ticket. Tradition should not dictate our decisions. . . .

"Patriotism should tell us to forget party labels this year. This will not be a case of leaving our party; rather our party, as we inherited it from our fathers, and as we would still like to have it, has left us . . . We of the South . . . should no longer be taken for granted in our national politics."

Hits Truman's Federalism

The editorial said "the philosophy which President Truman and his advisers have been following calls for the loss of more and more rights by the States and by the individuals."

The paper said Mr. Truman "has not shown the leadership necessary for the successful management of our national and international affairs.

"Our foreign situation could hardly be worse . . . Mr. Truman cannot work successfully with Congress or even lead members of his own party . . . Open warfare between the executive and legislative branches of the Government necessarily makes for bad administration at home, and weakens us abroad.

"We think it is time for a change in philosophy of Government and of our top leadership in Washington."

Optical Firms Are Enjoined

New York, Sept. 17 (U.P.).—Federal Judge John C. Knox signed a consent decree today in an anti-trust civil action against 35 of the Nation's largest manufacturers of eyeglasses and other optical products.

In a parallel criminal case, fines totalling $29,500 were imposed on six firms and one individual. The suits were brought in 1940 and the defendants had agreed to the settlement.

The civil judgment enjoins price-fixing and requires that patents and trade-marks on certain frames and mountings be made available to other manufacturers for reasonable royalties. It also limits expansion of the American Optical Co. of Southbridge, Mass.; Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., of Rochester, N. Y., and their affiliates in distribution of optical goods by further acquisition of independent concerns.

The court also banned a boycotting of wholesale firms by the defendants.

Germans Send Book of Thanks To Their Benefactors Here

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Out of the distress of Hamburg, Germany, has come a "book of thanks" for the relief rendered employes of a publishing house there by the General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, Takoma Park.

The hand-made maroon leather book was brought to the Takoma Park offices by Dr. W. E. Nelson, treasurer of the General Conference and chairman of the denomination's famine relief work abroad. He recently returned from a two-month tour of Germany.

The book expresses through pictures and charts the thanks of the employes of the Seventh Day Adventist Publishing House in Hamburg "to those whose heart went out to us in the days of our deepest distress . . ."

Bombs destroyed half of the publishing house but printing equipment was salvaged and work continues today amid the rubble.

The book contains five hand-printed pages. The first of these is a tribute to the General Conference and "the whole Adventist constituency of North America" from the management and employes of the publishing house.

The second page is filled with the signatures of the 124 employes and the fourth contains some statistics on their present way of life.

Seventy-four of them were bombed out, it shows, and today 10 live in attics, 5 in garden shacks, and 2 in basements. One of them lives in a single room with 5 other people.

Losses of weight among the employes ranged from 5 per cent to 30 per cent. Eight showed no change during the war, while five gained weight.

Another page shows the building before the war, and the final sheet consists of a series of views of the building as it is today.

According to Dr. Nelson, there are about 40,000 Seventh Day Adventists in Germany. Three denominational schools were recently reopened and a number of prefabricated building for chapels have been sent over.

The work in Germany is only a part of Adventist relief work, Dr. Nelson said.

Since the end of the war more than two million tons of new and used clothing have been distributed, and more than $1,700,000 spent for food supplies. These have been sent to Europe and the Far East.

The work is supported almost entirely by the denomination, which will initiate its fourth famine relief fund drive for $600,000 October 23. Every drive so far has been oversubscribed, Dr. Nelson said.

Next Big Gains Seen In Dual Sciences

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The world's next major scientific developments will come from the fields of coordinated sciences, Dr. Karl Lark-Horovitz, Vienna-born physicist, told science leaders here last night.

"Biophysics, biochemistry, astrophysics, meteorology, and, of course, nuclear physics will probably take the lead," he declared.

He spoke at a dinner given delegates of the Academy Conference, American Association for the Advancement of Science, at Hotel Statler. The meeting was the concluding event of the week-long centennial sessions of the AAAS.

Dr. Lark-Horovitz is somewhat of an authority on scientific trends, having recently completed "A Cronology of Scientific Achievements in the Past 100 Years." And, after looking at the records, he said, the United States has "led the world" in science progress.

DR. KARL LARK-HOROVITZ
"Nuclear physics will . . . lead"

3 Leaders in 1848

In 1848, he said, astronomy, geology and technology led all the sciences in United States. Atronomy, because "people looked to the stars for inspiration"; geology, because "people looked to the earth for resources," and technology, because "Americans did not want to be dependent on other countries."

Agriculture and medicine next became the important sciences, he said. Agriculture, with inventions for mass sowing and harvesting; medicine, with developments of anesthesia and surgery.

Dr. Lark-Horovitz said he terms the 1890's the "period of unpredictables when X-rays, electronics and many other new worlds were opened up by the scientists. It was this period, he said, that preceded science's "coming of age" in United States. From about 1900 on, he said, all the major sciences here "developed tremendously."

The physicist, incidentally, has done his share. He took the rare element, germanium (first found in the 1870's), studied its properties, found a way to extract it from zinc fields, and developed the rectifiers that so vitally increased the range of radar zones during World War II.

Served at Purdue 20 Years

Dr. Lark-Horovitz, general secretary of AAAS, has headed the physics department of Purdue University since 1929, and has been professor of physics there since 1928. He was naturalized in 1936. He returned to Washington for the AAAS Centenary from a two-month lecture tour in Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Holland and England.

Earlier yesterday, delegates from 37 city and State scientific academies, were told that the next Congress "undoubtedly" would pass the National Science Foundation bill, providing Federal aid for scientific research. The prediction was made by Dr. Frank Thone, botanist and botany editor of Science Service, the scientific news letter here.

Even with Federal aid, he said, science teachers will need "at least 10 years to correct the tragic blunder of the stupidly indiscriminate administration of the draft during the recent war." Drafting of young scientists and research workers, he said, resulted in "today's acute shortage of workers, both in basic scientific research and development."

Dr. Thone participated in the afternoon conference as a representative of the Washington Academy of Sciences.

Strike of 170 Idles 57,774

Detroit, Sept. 17 (AP).—Chrysler Corp. announced today that the last of its automobile assembly lines had been idled by a strike of 170 plant guards at the Briggs Manufacturing Co.

Chrysler said 26,774 of its employes in seven Detroit plants and one in Evansville, Ind., now are out of work because of the 10-day old Briggs strike.

It also was estimated that perhaps twice this number are idle in smaller plants that normally supply Chrysler with parts.

Chrysler's announcement brought to 57,774 the number of workers laid off because of the Briggs Strike.

ITU Asks Court To Dismiss Contempt Case

The AFL International Typographical Union said today an NLRB trial examiner had given it a clean bill of health on charges of violating a Taft-Hartley law injunction and this prevents contempt action against the union.

Union attorneys advanced this argument in asking dismissal of contempt proceedings brought against the ITU by Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

The union is charged in an NLRB case with violating the Taft-Hartley Act. It is alleged to have insisted on a closed shop in face of the law's ban on compulsory unionism.

Last March Denham obtained an injunction from Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert prohibiting the ITU from engaging in certain practices in dealing with newspapers until the NLRB decides whether the practices conform to the Taft-Hartley law.

On August 23 Denham's office asked Judge Swygert to hold the union in contempt for violating the injunction. A hearing on this action begins Monday in Indianapolis.

Chicago Printers Adopt New Proposals

Chicago, Sept. 16 (U.P.).—Rank and file AFL printers on strike for the past 10 months against five major Chicago daily newspapers voted approval today of a new set of proposals for settlement. They authorized union officers to use a contract reached between New York City printers and publishers as the basis for negotiations here.

John F. O'Keefe, secretary to the Chicago Newspaper Publishers Association, said the complete New York contract already had been rejected by publishers here. However, O'Keefe said that portions of the Eastern agreement might be acceptable to the Chicago newspaper managements.

Army Cargoes To Move Soon From Seattle

San Francisco, Sept. 17 (AP).—Movement of strike-bound Army cargo by union stevedores from Seattle was assured tonight.

And the Army was reported trying to line up union help to handle Army cargoes in other major West Coast ports.

Civilian cargoes remained idle, however, in the sixteenth day of the crippling West Coast maritime strike.

These were the day's developments:

1. Col. William H. Donaldson, jr., Seattle port commander, confirmed that CIO stevedoring gangs would begin loading military cargoes for the Far East under a "separate peace" contract with the stevedoring firm of Griffiths & Sprague.

Army Holds Up Payments

2. The Army disclosed it was holding up $1,300,000 in payments due local stevedoring firms which announced they would have nothing to do with Harry Bridges' union until he signed a non-Communist affidavit.

3. The Army announced it had canceled its contracts with four San Francisco stevedoring firms and would call for new bids tomorrow.

4. CIO warehousemen called on CIO President Philip Murray to recommend that the CIO repudiate indorsement of Harry S. Truman because of the Army's alleged "strike-breaking."

Meanwhile, the Army continued to load Army ships in the San Francisco Bay area with stevedores hired direct, despite CIO picketing. There are 5 cargo ships and 50,000 tons of essential Army cargo tied up at Oakland.

To Work at Prestrike Rates

The Seattle firm and the union had a contract prior to the current strike. Although it called for a 15-cent-an-hour pay increase, the union said stevedores would handle Army cargo at prestrike rates.

Colonel Donaldson said the agreement covers "essential Army cargo only."

Of the Army's decision to withhold payments to four local dock firms, the Waterfront Employers' Association pointed to a clause in the now-canceled contracts that provide for "excusable delay."

JUMPING AT CONCLUSION—In East Moline, Ill., a picket mounts an auto carrying workers to the strike-bound plant of the International Harvester Co. Later he was thrown from the police-escorted vehicle and injured as the auto bounced across railroad tracks

Harvester Strike Turns Violent

East Moline, Ill., Sept. 17 (AP).—State and city police fought with CIO pickets today at the two gates of the East Moline Works of the International Harvester Co.

At least four persons were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

The fighting developed from threats of the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' local to shut "tight" the big farm machinery works where a strike has been in progress for nine weeks.

Until today pickets had been permitting supervisory and maintenance personnel and some production workers to enter. Some workers gained entry to the works today but a report from the company on the number was not available immediately.

The strike followed a dispute over job reclassifications.

One Out of 4 Workers Is Unionist, BLS Says

The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated yesterday that one out of every four workers in the Nation is a union member.

The bureau issued a new list of the 197 national and international unions and 89 State and territorial labor organizations, with a combined membership of 15,600,000.

I like to play baseball and I like being a Christian. I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as my Saviour. Have you heard? There are 17 million boys and girls in our country who do not attend Sunday School. Let's do something about it, fellows and girls. Let's go to Sunday School and Church ourselves, but let's bring others, too.

One on the Aisle—

Six-Guns Silent In Good Western

By Richard L. Coe

REGINALD STEWART, the Baltimore conductor quoted in yesterday's paper as stating that noise is driving this country crazy, should meet Sherman.

Harry is a Hollywood producer who specializes in bangbang pictures like "Buffalo Bill," "The Kansan," "Tombstone" and "The Parson of Panamint." His latest, "Four Faces West," has just arrived at the Metropolitan and it should afford worried Stewart some comfort.

For though "Four Faces West" is a Western—and a far more adult one than most—it's sensationally different in that there's no bangbang. No blood is shed, no guns are fired, which, while a small thing in a universe of noise, is certainly a step which would ease the musician's shattering worry.

In all other aspects, "Four Faces West" abides by the Western traditions. Its cowboy hero did rob a bank, but he did it for his poor papa and he starts paying it back before Lawnorder close in, which makes bank-robbing in Westerns an acceptable, if not righteous, livelihood. There is action aplenty in a chase through the New Mexican wildlands, and, here again, the hero shows his mettle. He finds a Mexican family dying of diphtheria, but instead of giving them short shrift, pauses in his flight to doctor them and so lay himself open to Sheriff Garrett.

The Joel McCreas Starred

In both the screen play by Graham Baker and Teddi Sherman (from a story by Eugene Manlove Rhodes, "Paso Por Aqui") and the acting, Producer Sherman is well served. The story is effectively told without complete descent into the bag of cliches one finds in the average Western, and the direction of Alfred E. Green keeps the chase going at zippy clip—with the noise of gunplay giviving way to the muffled churning of horses' hooves.

In the leads of such a story is a husband-wife team, Joel McCrea and Frances Dee, who might well give Roy Rogers and Dale Evans (Mr. and Mrs.) a race for the title of the Lunt-Fontannes of the horse opera world. McCrea, whom one is accustomed to seeing as a noble nature boy, seems strange, at first, to be a chap fleeing from the law, but, as we said, the character's more good than bad, so don't worry about Joel. Miss Dee is as attractive as ever and Charles Bickford is just the man as the famed sheriff.

"Paso Por Aqui," by the way, is said to be "semiautobiographical" and most of its characters are historical figures. Both they and the story have been treated with lively respect that makes this Western refreshingly different.

"FOUR FACES WEST," an Enterprise Picture of United Artists release, produced by Harry Sherman, directed by Alfred E. Green, screen play by Graham Baker and Teddi Sherman from the novel "Paso Por Aqui," by Eugene Manlove Rhodes. At the Metropolitan.

TWO STARS arrived in town yesterday, one a veteran actor, the other an actor-veteran . . . Lloyd Nolan and Audie Murphy are at the Statler, where the Variety Clubs International are in conclave . . . Lloyd you've known for years, lately as a law-enforcing type . . . Audie is that young lieutenant who was the most decorated soldier of the war and who hopes to marry Wanda Hendrix "when I'm making as much money as she does . . ." Audie worked hard in Paramount's dramatic studios before making his first film appearance in "Beyond Glory," last week's Warner feature . . . Audie was the chap who cut in on Donna Reed for Alan Ladd . . . Soon Nolan and Murphy will be back in Hollywood making "Bad Boy" for Paul Short and Allied Artists . . . Variety International is sponsoring this film which details one of the aspects of the clubs' many charitable works.

VARIETY'S meetings at the Statler continue today, climaxing with tonight's Humanitarian Dinner at which Secretary of State Marshall will be presented with the clubs' annual award . . . The stars and gold braid will be much in evidence for the Presidential Room fete . . . The local Tent No. 11, as host to the conference, is keeping such barkers as Frank Boucher, Carter Barron, Nathan D. Golden and Sam Galanty far from thumb-twiddling.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON'S opening Redskins game in Baltimore benefitting the Boys' Clubs of Washington and Baltimore through Variety will be the final event of the three-day conclave, drawing not only the visitors, but also so many of the local theater men you might wonder if there'll be Sunday shows here . . . Of course there will, but don't ask to see the manager.

A WANDERING MINSTREL HE—Kenny Baker, with Jean Colin as Yum Yum, joins forces with the D'Oyly Carte Opera company for the Hippodrome's film revival of "The Mikado." Although the famed Gilbert and Sullivan company will be in this country this season, their only local engagement must, perforce, be on the screen

'Under Pressure'

Flaherty Quits As Yank Coach

FLAHERTY IN AN APPREHENSIVE MOMENT

'Red' Strader Will Handle Team Rest Of Season; 3 Losses Lead to Change

New York, Sept. 17 (U.P.).—Ray Flaherty resigned "under pressure" as coach of the New York Yankee professional football team today and he was replaced by Backfield Coach Norman (Red) Strader for the remainder of the season.

Three defeats in a row were too much for the once-proud Yanks to take.

The formal announcement said, "It is felt that a change in leadership is necessary to put the club back on a winning stride."

Twice under Flaherty the Yanks were Eastern Division champions in the fledgling All-America Conference, but their record this season has been cellar bait.

After defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers in their opener, they lost twice to Baltimore and once to San Francisco in subsequent games.

But the most bitter pill of all was the tiny crowd of 18,959 which was nearly lost in mammoth Yankee Stadium last night when the Yanks suffered their second loss to Baltimore. Earlier in the week the hated Giants of the rival National Football League drew more than 30,000 for a charity exhibition.

Flaherty was with the Yanks since the beginning of All-America Conference play in 1946, and so was Strader.

The stocky, bull-voiced Strader was given credit for developing Spec Sanders, the Yank backfield star and saving grace of this year's losing team. He was in Chicago on a scouting trip when his temporary appointment as head coach was revealed.

Strader is a St. Mary's graduate who played minor league professional baseball, and then served as coach at St. Mary's and Regis College of Denver. He was freshman coach in 1932, assistant to Slip Madigan in 1933 and head coach in 1940 and 1941. He had served at Regis from 1928 to 1931.

During the summer Strader serves the Yanks as a baseball scout.

During the war he served in the Navy and joined the Yanks after his discharge. He turned down four top college offers to tutor the pros.

A one-time Giant star and also a former Washington Redskin coach, Flaherty graduated from Gonzaga University in his native Spokane, Wash., and later served there as coach. With the Yanks, he was one of the last professional coaches using the single wingback formation.

Flaherty 1st, Best Coach of Redskins

Ray Flaherty, who resigned yesterday as coach of the New York Yankees, was the Washington Redskins' first and most successful coach.

At the helm of the 'Skins from 1937 through '42, he piloted them to two world championships, and one Eastern Division title. His worst season was 1941, when the 'Skins finished third in the Eastern Division with a 6-5 record.

His best year was his last, 1942, when the Redskins won 10 out of 11 games, and then whipped the Chicago Bears, 14-6, for the title. He resigned before the 1943 season to accept a commission in the Navy. Under his direction, the Redskins won 49, lost 17 and tied 3.

Near a Record

Nats Make it 17 Losses In Row, 4-1; Feller Fans 11

Cleveland, Sept. 17.—The Nats continued to hold their hats as their toboggan continued to plunge downward today with Bob Feller and the Indians whipping them, 4-1, before 6168, smallest crowd of the local season.

It was Washington's seventeenth straight defeat and the Nats now are within three of the modern major league record for his sad business.

Feller was fast and good as he set a personal strikeout record of 11 for the season. His best previous for one game this season was nine.

He allowed only five hits and had a shutout until the ninth, when Gil Coan singled, Al Kozar walked and Ed Stewart doubled. It was Feller's sixteenth victory.

The homerun hammer again was too much for the Nats and this time it was Walt Masterson who suffered.

Jim Hegan hit his thirteenth of the campaign in the second inning with Ken Keltner on base. Two walks and a single by Hegan created another run in the fourth. Keltner hit his twenty-seventh homer of the year in the sixth. Feller struck out six men in the first three innings and didn't allow a man past first until the ninth.

The Indians now have won 15 out of 21 from the Nats with the 1948 finale coming up tomorrow.

Bosox Keep Game Lead By Beating Browns, 9-3

St. Louis, Sept. 17 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox protected their slender one-game margin over the second place New York Yankees by defeating the St. Louis Browns 9-3 today before a small crowd of 1922. The Bosox nullified several Brownie scoring threats with five double plays.

The triumph, important as it was, may prove to be a costly one for the Bosox. Outfielder Sam Mele was injured sliding into third in the fourth inning and was carried off the field on a stretcher. His right ankle was hurt.

Dr. Robert E. Hyland later said Mele sprained the bones in his right foot and that he probably will be out of action for a week. An X-ray examination at St. John's Hospital showed there was no fracture.

Browns Beat Rockets, 28-7

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP).—Otto Graham, Cleveland quarterback, scored one touchdown himself and threw three scoring passes as the Browns gained their third All-America Conference victory by overwhelming the Chicago Rockets, 28-7, before 30,608 tonight.

Graham's 12-yard dash in the first quarter put the Browns in the lead, and Cleveland made it 14-0 when Otto lobbed a 4-yard toss to Bill Boedekeer, left half, midway in the second period. Lou Groza converted both tries.

A 63-yard Rocket march late in the second quarter paid off when Angelo Bertelli passed 13 yards to Elroy Hirsch for Chicago's only score, Juzwik place-kicking.

YOUNG BIDWILL SCORES—Bill Bidwill of Georgetown Prep breaks into the open for a touchdown in yesterday's game at Wilson. As Bidwill, son of the late owner of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League, races ahead, Chester Cooper (No. 48) of Wilson grabs a handful of jersey worn by Bob O'Donnell (Georgetown). The Prep eleven won, 12-0

Little Hoyas Upset Wilson In Grid Opener

Paced by Ed Claxton and Bill Bidwill, Georgetown Prep upset Woodrow Wilson, 12-0 yesterday on the loser's field in the opener for both teams.

Claxton's smart ball handling from the "T" formation and Bidwill's constant gaining paved the way for both scores.

The Prepsters took advantage of Lee Brinson's poor 14-yard punt and six plays later Bidwill carried it over from 2 yards out after a drive of 34 yards.

The Little Hoyas took advantage of another Wilson miscue in the third period when Bob O'Donnell fell on a loose ball after a poor handoff from Brinson. O'Donnell drove to the 2 and again Bidwill plowed over.

Both Prep conversion attempts were blocked.

Wake Forest Tries 'T' on G. W. Today

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Wake Forest, N. C., Sept. 17.—The most interested observer at tomorrow's George Washington-Wake Forest College football game here will be Mr. Douglas Clyde Walker, professor of football and teller of tall tales at the host school.

Mr. Walker has shifted to the T-formation and he and 18,000 other spectators will be on hand to see if the switch will make him a man of distinction.

When the portly Mr. Walker first announced that his Deacon footballers would sport football's new look, it immediately brought him a new nickname, "Teehead," instead of "Peahead." Mr. Walker likes the change.

While Walker and his aides are anxious to test their new-fangled offense against the Colonials, observers here are already convinced that the Deacons are much too strong for the Colonials.

They've made "Teehead's" team a three-touchdown favorite, a situation which Coach Bo Rowland of the Colonials likes very much, but which Mr. Walker can't understand.

Why did the Deacons abandon their traditional single-wing? For several reasons.

"First, we lost our four top guards and Nick Ognovich, the best blocking back I've ever seen," explained Mr. Walker. "And without good guards and a blocking back, you can't do nothing in the single-wing," continued Mr. Walker with an obvious disregard for the double wing and double negative.

"In the second place, the T-formation is good enough for the pros and semipros and it ought to be good enough for a little country school like ours," he added.

Quarterback Tom Fetzer, the Nation's tenth best passer last year, is at the throttle of Walker's "T" and Walker wishes he had about a

Joe Louis' Decision to Fight Again Makes Ahearn Happy

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Promoter Goldie Ahearn was the happiest man in town over Joe Louis' decision to defend his heavyweight title again.

Ahearn is the guy putting on the exhibition between Louis and Pat Comiskey Monday night at Griffith Stadium. He envisions a sharp upswing in attendance now that Louis says he will fight again.

The news broke yesterday at Liberty A.C. where Comiskey was sparring against Elkins Brothers. The champ himself was supposed to be on hand, but was held up in New York and won't be at the Ninth Street Gym. until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Ahearn was all smiles when he heard about the Louis announcement. Earlier, he optimistically estimated that his show would gross $30,000. "It oughta be better now," he enthused. "I've kept saying Louis would fight again."

More surprised than Ahearn was round Harry Mendel. He's only Louis' publicity man but confessed it was news to him.

Neither Pat Comiskey nor Lee Savold, stablemate in town with him, seemed to get excited about it. Comiskey thought it would help the gate. Savold, who ranks fourth among heavyweight contenders, said, "Maybe Comiskey will fool 'em and belt Louis." He seemed to be serious.

Savold also added, "They're liable to make any kind of an announcement to take the zing out of that other mob." He was referring to Twentieth Century's rival promoter, the Tournament of Champions.

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez was one local figure bitterly disappointed over the latest development in the heavyweight picture. Menendez, who arranged the Ezzard Charles-Jimmy Bivins bout here last Monday night, was battling against tremendous odds to try to get title sanction for a fight at Griffith Stadium between Charles and the winner of the now canceled Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich fight.

"This kills all my plans," he admitted. "Naturally, I'm surprised. Only a few weeks ago in a radio interview at Carr's Beach, Louis told me he definitely would not fight again."

Menendez added, "I'm sorry to hear it. I feel like many others who wanted to see Louis retire undefeated. I honestly would hate to see the champ beaten by any of the current poor crop of heavyweights."

Lesnevich's Bout With Walcott Is Canceled

From the Wire Services

New York, Sept. 17.—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis stunned the boxing world today with an announcement that he will defend his title in Yankee Stadium next June if either Joe Baksi or Ezzard Charles proves a worthy challenger.

Immediate result of the Brown Bomber's bomb shell was the cancellation of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich fight scheduled for Tuesday at Jersey City.

Less than three hours after Louis' surprise statement, Andy Niederreiter, spokesman for the Tournament of Champions, announced that the fight was off.

Niederreiter said that Leshevich suffered a broken bone in the small toe of his right foot as he slipped leaving the Cliffside, N. J. Postoffice on Thursday.

A Surprising Disclosure

There was no explanation as to why this disclosure was a day late.

Louis, who has constantly reiterated that he was through with the ring, made his about-face statement today at Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

He publicly announced his retirement in the Yankee Stadium ring after he knocked out Walcott last June. On a national radio hookup, he said: "For my mother—this is for her—tonight was my last fight."

However, he never made the retirement "official" by notifying the New York Commission and the National Boxing Association that he was hanging up his gloves.

He has said publicly that he intended to take advantage of the six-month period of grace usually accorded a champion before he has to defend his title. He emphasized several times that he wouldn't fight again.

A Champion's Privilege

Today Louis didn't offer any reason for his decision. He said, merely, "It was my privilege to change my mind, so I done it."

There were many along fight row who were willing to advance reasons for him. It looked to them like Twentieth Century cozily was killing two birds with one stone.

In the first place, it was adding stature to the Charles-Baksi fight scheduled for Madison Square Garden November 12. In effect, the winner is promised a title shot against Louis.

Secondly, it was bound to put a considerable damper on the rival Tournament of Champions promotional group. Their Walcott-Lesnevich fight became meaningless.

To Let a Woman Pass

The sudden cancellation of the Walcott-Lesnevich fight apparently shows just how disastrous an effect Louis' action did have. The Tournament of Champions played it straight with its injury story then embellished that by explaining that Lesnevich slipped after he stepped aside to let a woman pass him.

The scheduled 15-rounder between Leshevich and Walcott was to have supported the middleweight title fight between Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan. At first Niederreiter claimed he was seeking a substitute for Lesnevich. Later he announced none was available.

Zale and Cerdan will go through with their bout but the T. of C. added that the top ticket price would be cut from $40 to $30. Refunds will be made on tickets already sold.

Breakable Miss

7-Year-Old Mare First At Bel Air

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 17.—Breakable Miss brought joy to a few scattered backers, but broke most of the favorite players today in the York Purse, featuring the Friday program at this point.

The 7-year-old mare, who runs as uncertainly as her breeding—having been sired by either Flying Heels or Unbreakable—came through with a stretch rush to win going away in the colors of R. N. Boerner.

Breakable Miss has tracks she likes and dislikes with the greatest of ease. After winning at Charles Town she moved to Cumberland and was beaten off, but came Hagerstown, and she won with ease. However, Marboro's deep going was against her grain and she didn't run a lick. But today—ah today—it was Bel Air and once again Breakable Miss performed like a minor track version of Citation.

Virginia Beach Favorite

The Knollwood Stable's Vittore was second in the field of eight and E. P. Price's Virginia Beach was third. It was to Virginia Beach that the favorite players flocked.

Virginia Beach ran a fair race, but was so inconspicious at the end that the judges, at first, failed to put her in the money, naming Tear Drop as the third horse. Fortunately, this was corrected before the "official" went up.

Breakable Miss paid a $34.80 win mutuel and was ridden the 7 furlongs by Jockey Patsy Grant in time of 1:26 2/5, only four fifths over the track record held by the fleet Annie's Dream.

Jockey Sammy Palumbo won the first race by a half inch—many thought it was a dead heat after seeing the photo—over S. H. Rogers' Lord Loudoun. Brooke Argo paid $11.80.

The daily double paid $37.80 after Jockey Stanley Austin brought H. R. Moore's Louis L. to the wire at $5.80 in the second event.

California, Texas Meet Strong Foes

New York, Sept. 17 (AP).—College football, once strictly a cold weather sport except for a few teams that liked to fatten their records on early fall "cannon fodder," opens a new and more serious season tomorrow.

Showing the trend toward schedules composed entirely of major games, about a half dozen of the matches show strength on both sides that would make them important contests any weekend.

A large part of the action is due to take place on the West Coast and in the South. Although none of the four teams involved is considered a title contender, Oregon State vs. Idaho and UCLA vs. Washington State in a night game get the Pacific Coast Conference race off to an early start.

Wake Forest, where Peahead Walker's newly installed T-formation has other coaches worried, begins the Southern Conference campaign against George Washington.

Bears Oppose Santa Clara

California and Oregon, two of the favorites on the Pacific Coast, start off against Santa Clara and Santa Barbara, Calif., State, respectively. In some years Santa Clara has been strong enough to give California a rough time, but this apparently isn't one of them. Stanford, another conference team, meets San Jose State.

Following the Wake Forest-George Washington game, two other Southern Conference teams open with night games—Davidson against Elon and Richmond against Randolph-Macon.

On the intersectional slate, Texas A. and M. vs. Villanova at Philadelphia, Texas Christian vs. Kansas at Lawrence and Louisiana State vs. Texas at Austin are the principal attractions.

Texas' Sugar Bowl team, minus Bobby Layne but still a favorite to win the Southwest Conference championship, takes on a Louisiana State squad which apprently isn't quite as strong as usual and which is guided by a new head coach, Gaynell Tinsley.

Villanova Looks Tough

Villanova, which had been building its team up to "major" strength for three years and now looms as a contender for the unofficial Eastern title, faces another strong Southwest Conference club in Texas A. and M.

So does Kansas, which is considered weaker than last season since Ray Evans' departure.

Oklahoma A. & M. opens the Missouri Valley Conference campaign against Wichita University. Iowa State, a Big Seven team, meets Iowa Teachers. Arkansas, the fourth Southwest Conference team to get an early start, plays Abilene Christian.

Other games include West Virginia vs. Waynesburg, Colorado Mines vs. Denver and West Texas vs. Texas Tech tomorrow and Loyola (Los Angeles) vs. St. Mary's and St. Francis (Pa.) vs. Canisius on Sunday.

Pancho Gonzales Upsets Frank Parker in Four Sets

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP).—Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, a tall, dark Mexican-American youngster from Los Angles, powered his way into the semifinals of the national tennis championships today with a remarkable four-set victory over the tournament favorite, Frankie Parker.

In just over two hours of playing time, the 20-year-old with the "big" game destroyed the veteran Parker's dreams of winning his third national crown and planted himself squarely in the forefront of this country's future greats. The scores were 8—6, 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

In one of tomorrow's two semifinals, Pancho will slug it out with another power player, Jaroslav Drobny, the left-handed Czech. Drobny, 27, smashed out Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, the Wimbledon champ, 8—6, 6—1, 6—3, in a terrific display in which he never lost his blazing service.

The other match brings together Herbie Flam, the 19-year-old giant killer from Beverly Hills, and Eric Sturgess, the smooth-stroking South African who scored successive victories over two of America's top stars, Billy Talbert and Carl Cochell.

Of the four survivors of a week of spectacular upsets which have wiped out tennis' old guard, Gonzales was seeded eighth and last on the American list. Flam was unseeded. Drobny and Sturgess were placed second and fifth, respectively, on the list of foreign contenders.

Should Drobny and Sturgess win tomorrow they would meet Sunday in the first all-foreign final since Fred Perry of England bested Jack Crawford of Australia in the 1933 playoff.

The same two girls who met in last year's women's final—Louise Brough of Beverly Hills and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del.—battled their way through today's semifinals. Miss Brough turned back Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., 6—3, 6—3 and Mrs. Dupont pulled out a close one over Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., 10—8, 6—4.

Miss Brough defeated Mrs. Dupont in three sets in the '47 playoff and went on to add the Wimbledon title to her laurels this summer. She will be heavily favored to trim her long-time doubles partner again on Sunday.

Cards Defeat Dodgers, 4-2, Tie for Second

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals, aided by some spectacular outfield support, moved into a second place tie with Pittsburgh today by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 2.

The Cards and Pirates are 5½ games behind the front-running Boston Braves.

Lefty Howie Pollet gave up eight hits in recording his thirteenth victory against six defeats, while Stan Musial—although hitless for the day—aided the Cardinal cause with three great catches.

Bears Expected to Trounce Skins Again in Baltimore

St. John's and Tech, Undefeated In '47, Not So Good This Year

McKinley Eleven Is Short on Reserves

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

McKinley Tech's championship eleven was so good last year that Tech can't possibly win the title again this year.

That's the opinion of Coach Ed Solomon and everyone else who's watched the Trainers going through their practice paces.

They figure that Tech's first-string team of last year was so durable and the games so tight that Solly couldn't afford to use his reserves with any regularity.

Consequently, this year's first string (last year's No. 2 team), which opens today at Montgomery Blair, has practically no experience.

Solly's only daily reminder that he had a championship team last year is Julius Poms, 200-pound tackle. Every other regular of last year graduated. Bill Werber 3d, son of the former big league third baseman, was expected to take over his passing halfback duties, but young Billy has forsaken a promising football career to concentrate on baseball.

Tech's green backfield consists of Harry Dellastatious at wingback, Randy Gaskell at quarterback, Johnny Passas at fullback and Jerry Spindler at tailback. Bill Rogers will come in to do the punting.

Dellastatious, whose brother, Billy, was a star at Missouri a few years back, is the No. 1 runner and passer.

Colonials Face Deacons

dozen more players as good as the 21-year-old 170-pound senior.

There are three lettermen at left half with Bill Gregus of Toledo, Ohio, and No. 1 man Harry Dowda, another regular last year, is the leading right halfback, and still another 1947 varsity man, Buddy Lail, gets the call at fullback.

Quarterback Andy Ditomo and Fullback Roger Pryor would have given the Deacs more striking power in the backfield, but they were ruled ineligible by the Deacons after the Southern Conference ruled out Maryland's Lu Gambino.

The line, which average 206 pounds per man, will outweigh the Colonials by about 10 pounds per man. Wake's best linemen are Ed Hoey and Red O'Quinn, two fine offensive performers, and Tackles Bill George and Bernie Hanula, who weigh 440, almost squally divided, between them.

Walker's "T" has all the trimmings—laterals, long and short pitch outs, forward-laterals and the rest of the razzle-dazzle stuff.

This spring Walker confessed that his "T" team was "so deceptive that even I didn't know who had the ball a lot of times. I've caught on to it now, but I hope Rowland's club doesn't tomorrow. If it takes them as long as it did me, we ought to whip 'em."

GW High Romps, 27-6

Teddy Potts passed to two touchdowns and ran for a third as he led George Washington High of Alexandria to an opening game 27-6 victory over Mount Vernon High before 7000 fans at G. W. stadium.

Potts' pitching arm got warmed up in the second quarter when he connected with a 15-yard touchdown pass to Bill Smith. After Tackle Earl Dixon blocked a Mount Vernon punt in the third quarter, Potts plunged three yards for the second G. W. score.

Bobby Via made a circus catch of an 18-yard Potts aerial late in the third period, and romped 20 more yards to score. Buzzy Harris' 1-yard plunge on the end of a 51-yard sustained drive wound up G. W. scoring. Mount Vernon scored its lone touchdown with 2 minutes left on a 45-yard pass play, Charlie Thomas to Page Thompson.

Roosevelt Wins Opener

Martinsburg scored first in the second quarter when Tackle Joe Siler intercepted a pass by Roosevelt's Dick Heishman and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Bob Wilhelm tied the score a few minutes later on an off-tackle thrust which carried him 50 yards into the end zone.

Committee Calls on Truman For FBI Report on Condon

of the Senate investigating subcommittee, said Clark's files contain "evidence upon which you can base your requests for indictments in many places, but specifically in Denver, Salt Lake City, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, D. C."

2. Clark immediately issued a public statement directed to Ferguson charging him with headline hunting. "I would appreciate it if you would quit trying to claim credit for the work of the FBI and the Department of Justice and keep your political activity out of the field of serious prosecution of offenses under Federal statutes."

3. At the Justice Department Alex H. Campbell, Assistant Attorney General, would neither confirm nor deny reports that grand juries are to be summoned soon in various cities to hear evidence on the alleged Communists. Campbell said an investigation had been going on for months and is continuing.

Former FBI Man Heard

4. An Un-American Activities subcommittee was authorized yesterday to go to New York Wednesday to question Mrs. Oksana S. Kasenkina, the Russian school teacher who leaped from a Soviet consulate window in New York.

5. The committee heard testimony in executive session yesterday from Harold H. Velde, a former FBI agent, who described his wartime operations against Communists trying to obtain the secrets of the atomic bomb.

Committee Defends Self

In the first public answer it has made to criticism of its operations, the committee yesterday defended itself against charges it said were made by President Truman, David E. Lilienthal and the American Association for the Advancement of Science that it is "endangering the Nation's safety by 'smear' tactics against scientists."

"The plain unvarnished truth of the matter is that but two scientists out of the many hundreds employed in the atomic research have been subjects of committee inquiry resulting in adverse publicity, Dr. Kamen of the Washington University at St. Louis and Dr. Edward U. Condon, Wallace-appointed head of the Bureau of Standards."

"The former was discharged from the Manhattan Project upon request of Military Intelligence for alleged 'indiscretions' involving contact with Russian consular officials. He was subpenaed by the committee in the furtherance of is investigation, but the committee did not make public his testimony and made no comment concerning him, and the only adverse publicity consisted of press references to the described separation.

"The latter, Condon, was the subject of a lengthy FBI report detailing his association with alleged Soviet espionage agents, including Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, who was recently described before this committee as heading an espionage ring of Government employes.

"The report is locked in President Truman's desk, according to his own statement, and the Congress has been denied access to it.

"However, Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was obviously permitted to review the report recently, since he announced that the AEC, after consideration of its contents, had cleared Condon, for access to atomic information without reviewing the evidence before this committee.

"The Condon hearing will bring out the full facts upon which the committee made its report and the public may then exercise a balanced judgment, but we emphasize that it is obligatory upon President Truman to release Mr. Hoover's report on Dr. Condon to the Congress.

"As to the absurd claim of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that large numbers of scientists have resigned in recent months, because of 'fear of smear' a complete denial was issued on September 15 by C. N. Rucker, the executive director of the Oak Ridge plant, who released the following statement:

"'I have checked our records and I find that of a normal employment of 500 technical personnel, we have had a net loss of about 15 persons in the past year.'"

Group to Investigate Schoolteacher Union

A House Labor Subcommittee will begin an investigation in New York on September 27 into charges of Communist domination of a CIO schoolteachers union there.

Chairman Samuel K. McConnell, jr. (R., Pa.), said the subcommittee will look into a complaint made against Teachers Local 55 of the CIO United Public Workers Union by R. L. Duncan, president of the Radio Electronics School of New York.

Duncan has charged that local 555 is a Communist-dominated group and is trying to "destroy" his school, which was set up for the training and rehabilitation of veterans.

The two major projects include 7.4 miles of concrete pavement on the H. G. Shirley Memorial Highway, Fairfax County, covering the southbound lane from the present end of the pavement 4.52 miles south of Route 236 to Route U. S. 1 at Occoquan Creek.

Tract Bought Conditionally For Jr. High

The Arlington County School Board yesterday signed a conditional sales contract to buy seven acres of land for a new junior high school.

The land, off N. Military rd., near Lee hgwy., will be purchased for $47,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Carusillo, if a survey shows it is suitable for the school building.

Construction of the school at this time depends on a vote to be taken in the November general elections, to authorize a $4,700,000 bond issue, of which $1,700,000 would be used for the new school.

If the land is found suitable for the school but the bond issue does not go through, the land will be held until money can be raised by other means, officials said. The board has money on hand to buy the land.

The seven acres is so situated that the proposed school, which would be the largest junior high school in the county, could be approached from three sides, Lorcum la., Old Dominion dr. and Military rd. The site has been used by the Washington YWCA for its vacation lodge.

Japanese Woman Almost Breaks Mountain's Ban

Osaka, Japan, Sept. 16 (AP).—Mrs. Hisao Hashimoto tried twice today to break a thousand-year-old ban on women climbing the sacred Buddhist mountain of Nara Omine.

Ancient monks barred women as unclean from the mountain centuries ago.

Said Mrs. Hashimoto: "I can't understand why in this day of democracy they do not grant equal rights to women."

At Mikamo, police tried to stop farm boys and girls from dancing in the fields.

Steward, McNally Reelected by NFFE; Stronger CSC Urged

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 17—The familiar Washington team of Steward and McNally was unanimously reelected here today to direct the largest Government worker union, the National Federation of Federal Employes, for the next two years.

Luther C. Steward, who helped

to organize the NFFE, has served as its president for the past 31 years, since shortly after the independent union was formed during World War I.

Gertrude N. McNally, who was reelected secretary-treasurer, is the Nation's first lady of labor. She has been active in the labor movement longer than any other woman.

Miss McNally helped to organize the women's union of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing more than 40 years ago. She has served continuously as corresponding secretary of the local, now affiliated with the NFFE, since 1909. She was first elected NFFE secretary-treasurer in 1925, a post she still holds.

Before it closed its biennial convention here, the union went on record for strengthening of the merit system to include all Federal jobs except those of a policy-making nature. It was particularly critical of the present practice to hand out positions of collectors of internal revenue and of customs on a partisan political basis.

A stronger Civil Service Commission—one with definite responsibility for the formulation and supervision of all Federal personnel practices—was demanded by the employe group. Furthermore, that each department and agency should be required by law to appoint a personnel director with rank and prestige equal to that of a second-ranking official, and that he should be given full authority to deal with all personnel problems in his agency.

The NFFE urged repeal of the State quota law which it said was contrary to the spirit and practice of the merit system. That law places a theoretical limit on the number of people from one State that can be appointed to Federal jobs in the Nation's Capital.

Passed over by the convention was the resolution which proposed that war service appointees be given the opportunity to gain permanent status through unwritten tests. In fact, none of the many measures before the convention that could be interpreted as weakening the merit system was approved by the delegates.

However, the employe organization urged that Federal pensions be exempted from income taxes; that all overtime be paid for in cash at full time and a half rates; that a thorough going program of job instruction and training be instituted, and that employes be given greater recognition for suggestions that result in better Government service.

Jones Quizzed By Grand Jury On Gaming Here

Well-Known Gambler Leaves Session With Quivering Hands; Refuses Comment

Alfred T. "Puddinhead" Jones 47, convicted gambler, was quizzed for almost two hours yesterday by the special grand jury investigating gambling here.

"I'm not going to comment on anything to The Washington Post," he told a reporter.

Quiz On Since Spring

The grand jury has been examining gambling on the numbers lottery racket since spring. They were called by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws after United States Attorney George Morris Fay charged that the local gamblers were doing a one-million-dollar a year business.

Witnesses so far have included District Commissioner John Russell Young, policemen and members of the fraternity ranging from suspected financial backers down to the street-corner bookmaker.

Jones, who weighs 195 pounds and is about 5 foot 5, has been arrested 28 times since 1921. Twice he has gone to jail, once for six months for setting up a gaming table and once for four months for receiving stolen property in the form of 11 cases of Scotch whisky for which he paid a total of $300, according to the charges.

Jones went into the jury's chambers smiling and came out three-quarters of an hour later still smiling. Within a few minutes he was called back in.

He came out again in a half hour, and this time, he nervously paced the Municipal Courthouse floor. He lit one cigarette, extinguished it and lit another.

Once again, he was called back. This time, through the closed door, the voice of Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly was heard as he raised it to a shout in his questioning.

When Jones finally left the room, he was shaking. He lit a match and it wavered as he applied it to a cigarette.

A reporter called him and he replied, "yes," but walked slowly down the hall.

Again, the reporter called out "Mr. Jones," and this time Jones stopped but he did not turn around, he waited for the reporter to walk around him.

After Jones refused to comment, he waddled out of the courthouse. Asked if he would be back, he replied, "Maybe."

Later, he was called at his residence, 1153 S st. nw. Again he refused to comment, but said he might be able to say something later—"maybe."

Jones' arrests include disorderly conduct, assault, gambling, untaxed liquor possession, and keeping an unlicensed dog.

Another witness before the grand jury yesterday was Pvt. Frank N. Manthos, police undercover man investigating vice. A third witness—a man—was unidentified.

5 Arrested In Numbers Raid on Flat

Five men were arrested on numbers charges yesterday after vice squad detectives raided a basement apartment at 77 Hawaii ave. ne.

The raiders took $920 in bills from Samuel J. Battista, 29, 1404 Woodside pkwy., Silver Spring, Md., whose socks yielded a quantity of alleged lottery slips, according to police.

Battista and Michael J. Estep, 46, janitor at the apartment house, were charged with operating a lottery and possessing lottery slips. Roy Blick, head of the vice squad, quoted Battista, as saying he was a junk man who went around to apartment houses to collect papers.

The three others arrested, who were charged with possession of slips, were identified as Charles Henry Jones, 67, 1206 R st. nw.; Theodore R. Price, 41, 416 Virginia ave. se., and Leonard Hines, 45, 1526 B st. ne.

Estep and Battista were released on $1500 bond each for appearance before the United States Commissioner on Monday. The others were placed under $500 bond each for appearance at the same time.

Boy, 17, Held Without Bond On Sex Charge

A 17-year-old boy was held without bond yesterday on charges of having carnal relations with a 15-year-old girl.

The youth, Alvin M. Romeo, of 315 G st. ne., was also charged with three counts of housebreaking and two of grand larceny.

Since carnal knowledge is a capital offense upon recommendation of a trial jury, Judge Aubrey W. Fennell of Municipal Court refused to grant Romeo bond in holding him for the grand jury.

According to court records, Romeo at the age of 15 robbed a man. Three months ago, he was charged with attemting to have carnal relations with a 4-year-old girl. In the latter case, he is presently on $3000 bond pending trial.

Police said that the parents of the 15-year-old girl complained of the alleged assault on their daughter, stating it had occurred September 2.

In investigating the case, police said, they connected Romeo with theft of money and a radio from her house and a house next door.

Juvenile Court waived jurisdiction thus opening the way to action in Municipal Court.

Committee Aide Sues for Divorce

Johnston Frazer Stewart, staff member of the Congressional Committee on Labor-Management Relations has filed suit in District Court for absolute divorce from Betty Ann Stewart, 1815 17th st. nw., it was learned yesterday.

He filed the suit on August 31, obtaining a court order restraining his wife from interfering with his private life or employment. On Wednesday, Mrs. Stewart filed for a limited divorce on which no court action has been taken.

County Police Get 3 Seized After Burglary

Three of six men arrested here Thursday after seizure of stolen property were turned over yesterday to Montgomery County police for trial in a Gaithersburg store burglary.

The three other men, and a girl found in their company, were released as having had no connection with the theft of about $700 worth of pressure cookers, canning machines, adding machines, electric fans and typewriters last Wednesday night from the Southern States Cooperative Store.

The three men facing the Gaithersburg charge are Junior B. Shahan, 28, in whose car and home at 2403 Pennsylvania ave. nw. police said they found the stolen goods; Paul R. Dunagan, 24, of Glen Echo, Md., and Frank F. Natoli, 20, of 3421 Q st. nw.

The men and girl were arrested at Shahan's house after District police got a tip that stolen property was being held there. Other articles found on the property are being held for identification by the persons who have reported thefts of such articles.

Correction

Through an error Fire Chief Clement Murphy was quoted in yesterday's editions of The Washington Post as declaring that he would install a street-type box alarm in the Birney School regardless of what Assistant Engineer Commissioner L. E. Cox ruled on the matter.

Chief Murphy, although opposed to the placement of remote control boxes in schools, said last night he would "certainly abide by whatever decision is made by Lieut. Colonel Cox." He said he plans to present arguments in favor of the street-type alarm to the assistant engineer commissioner next week.

The Washington Post regrets the error.

Flat Feet or Missing Thumb Will Provide Draft Exemption

147 Diseases Listed Which May Excuse Man From Service

By The Associated Press

Flat feet again will keep you out of the armed forces, President Truman said yesterday in a 31-page draft directive issued on the eve of the final day of registration of American men 18 through 25.

Flat feet kept men out of World War I but did not keep their sons from serving in World War II.

The new directive, devoted mainly to technicalities of Selective Service procedure, lists 147 diseases or ailments that may "disqualify a registrant for serivce."

In addition to "feet, flat when accompanied by marked symptoms and deformity," were such ailments or deformities as:

Alcoholism, stuttering, deformity of an eyelid, certain warts on "weight-bearing areas," deep scars that show a tendency to break, loss of a thumb, and others.

The new directive ordered that a registrant subject to the draft could ask for a local medical check-up if he thought he had any of the deferring ailments. This would save him a trip to the Army physical check-up center.

Also clarified was the manner in which quotas would be determined for various sections. Instead of by population, the draft calls will be determined on the basis of the actual number of registrants classified in class 1-A or class 1-A-O who have been found acceptable for service.

Postponement of inductions up to four months may be granted, the new order says, in case of the death of a member of the registrant's family, extreme emergency involving a member of his family, his own illness or "other extreme emergency beyond the registrant's control."

77,200 Enlist During August for Record; Strength Now 623,806

Urged on by the draft of 18-to-25-year-olds, a record-breaking total of 77,200 men enlisted in the armed services during August, it was reported yesterday.

Having signed up about 45,000 volunteers, the Army is now at a strength of 623,806, compared with its postwar low of 542,000. The present goal is 837,000 men plus 110,000 18-year-old trainees by July 1, 1949.

The Navy enlisted 14,820 men during the month, 12,658 signed up for the Air Force, and the Marines enlisted 4713.

Meanwhile, draft boards are about to complete today the registration of all men from 18 to 25. After today, the only registrations under the new draft law will be youths reaching the age of 18, who must sign up not later than five days after their birthday.

While today is officially the second day for registration of those who were born in 1930 before September 19, the fact that it is also the last day of general registration prompted Frank D. Norton, chief clerk of District Selective Service, to issue a reminder for latecomers.

Any men eligible for the draft who have not signed up yet should do so today, he said. They may register at any District fire house, several police stations, the District Building, Municipal Center, National Guard Armory or the Dunbar High School, between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m.

A total of 49,618 District registrations had been received by last night, Norton announced, and questionnaires have been sent to 3851 registrants.

Yesterday, 255 signed up—51 at the District Building, 45 at the Municipal Center, 74 at the Armory and 85 at Dunbar High School.

After today, registrants must sign up at the local Selective Service headquarters, in Tempo Building No. 2, 1901 D st. nw.

Those who have been out of the country may register within five days of their return, and those who have been unable to register because of illness have five days from the time they recover.

Others Get Medals At Ceremony Held In Arlington Park

A father and son were among five recipients of Eagle Scout badges, highest award in Scouting, at an Arlington District court of honor last night at Campfire Glen-Lubber Run Park, Arlington, Va.

They were Don Q. Crowther, 5100 N. 25th st., Arlington, scoutmaster of Troop 141 and an economist with the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and his son, Duane, 14. The other three were Scoutmaster E. Gordon Lambdin, 228 N. Greenbrier st. and Lloyd Swift, 323 N. Oxford st., of Troop 148, and Ray Ivie, 1137 N. Utah st., Troop 141. A sixth, Charles Sinclair, jr., Troop 108, was not present to receive his award.

Star Scout badges, second highest ranking, went to Allan Kauffman, Troop 103; Thomas C. Thayer, Forrest Stieg, Leroy Niskanen, Arthur R. Geiger, jr., all of Troop 104; Roger Ramm, Troop 115; Lewis Phillips and Lynn George, Troop 116; Roland Hartman, Troop 120; John Christensen and Gordon Kent Thomas, Troop 141, and Richard Raines, Troop 151.

Life Scout awards went to Heston Heald, jr., and William L. Mathews, Troop 104, and Allan P. Davitt, Troop 119.

G. Edward Todd of Explorer Post 115, was awarded woodsman's rank.

Eagle Scout badges were donated by the Kiwanis Club of Arlington.

Bethesda Girl Is Polio Victim, 4th This Year

Stricken 2 Weeks After Graduation From High School; 2 New Cases Listed

A 17-year-old girl died at Gallinger Hospital yesterday morning, Greater Washington's fourth polio fatality this year.

At the same time, the District Health Department reported two new polio cases for the Greater Washington area, bringing this year's total to 156, with 85 in the District.

Fatally stricken was Barbara Scruggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wirtly P. Scruggs, of 8905 Seneca ln., Bethesda, Md. The father is assistant to the vice president of Eastern Air Lines.

Barbara first complained of feeling ill the evening of September 6, after returning from a Labor Day picnic with friends in the vicinity of Chevy Chase, Md., her parents said.

Died in Iron Lung

She went to bed early because of a headache. The next day, she suffered nausea and her back and neck also ached, they said. She had a slight amount of stiffness in her right leg but it seemed to disappear, until she suddenly took a turn for the worse September 10, according to Dr. Robert E. Maher, who was called in to treat her.

On that day, her illness was diagnosed as infantile paralysis and she was sent to Gallinger Hospital, where she was placed in an iron lung immediately. The symptoms of bulbar polio became evident the next day and she remained in the respirator until her death at 10 a. m. yesterday, he said.

Barbara was born in Westerly, R. I., and came to Washington with her family when she was 2½ years old. She graduated from the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School August 20 after completing a semester of summer school.

Besides her parents, she is survived by a 6-year-old sister, Karen. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Last year, there were six polio deaths in Greater Washington. One occurred in January, a second in June, three in October and one in November.

This year's fatalities the first of which occurred August 20, were an 8-year-old boy and a 20-year-old youth from the District and a 25-year-old woman from Falls Church, Va.

2 Admitted to Gallinger

The two new cases for the Greater Washington area were a 7-year-old girl from the 1800 block of Stanton tr. se., and a 13-year-old boy from the 500 block of Greenwich st., Falls Church, Va. Both were admitted to Gallinger Hospital Thursday.

For Tuberculars

Variety Clubs To Operate N. Y. Hospital

Variety Clubs International last night agreed to take over the financial responsibility of operating the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

The proposal was made by Nathan D. Golden, chief of the motion picture division of the Department of Commerce, at a business session of the club's three-day midyear conference here.

Cost of operating the hospital is approximately $175,000 annually. The hospital cares for tubercular patients who are in the show and amusement business. A committee of eight will be named tonight by the club's "chief barker," Robert J. O'Donnell to confer with representatives of major motion picture distributors on methods of raising money to operate the hospital.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall will receive the showmen's highest honor—the Humanitarian Award—at a dinner at 8 tonight in the Statler Hotel. Movie star Red Skelton is expected to be on hand as master of ceremonies.

The dinner will mark the end of the Washington conference. The next meeting will be held in San Francisco in 1949. Washington Tent No. 11 was host to the officers and delegates.

Incinerator Job Awarded In Arlington

The Arlington County Board last night awarded a contract for construction of a 300-ton incinerator to the Nichols Engineering and Research Corp. of New York, which bid $646,757.

The only dissenting vote was cast by Board President Daniel Dugan who favored another company submitting a lower bid.

This firm, the Morse-Boulger Co., also of New York, submitted its bid of $628,843, although it could not qualify as a bidder under an experience clause set forth in the specifications.

This required the bidder to have previously built two plants of a similar size which had been operating successfully for two years.

Thomas Kelly, representing the Morse-Boulger Co. in supporting his company's bid, told the board that the Nichols company is the only company in the United States which could qualify under the experience clause with respect to mechanically stoked incinerators.

He contended that his company could demonstrate its ability to perform through the functioning for more than a year of a smaller plant of that type.

H. R. Kiegerman, consulting engineer of the Alexander Potter Associates, who prepared specifications said he would be forced to recommend the Nichols company on the basis of mechanical stoker bids. He contended, however, that elements of competition were present between the Nichols bid and bids on hand-stoked incinerators, submitted by other companies.

Before polling the five-member board on the motion to award the contract, Dugan stated, "I am not going to vote for the motion. It seems to me the whole thing is not proper."

Dugan contended the board should have been informed before the bids were advertised that only one company in the entire United States was qualified.

"I sincerely think that Morse-Boulger Co. should get the contract. They lacked only the required experience but they have arranged a bond to guarantee their performance."

In polling the board, Dugan voted "No."

Earlier, the board voted, 3 to 2, to appoint Albert Carretta, a member of the Arlington Public Utilities Commission to act as attorney for a subcommittee of the PUC which will prepare a request to the State Corporation Commission to investigate the division of costs between the Rosslyn Gas Co. and the Washington Gas Light Co. for utility services in the county.

Board Members F. Freeland Chew and Basil DeLashmutt voted against the measure. Both stated that they were not voting against Carretta personally but that they felt the motion to be "ill-timed and ill-conceived," as the meeting had been called specifically to award the incinerator contract and they had not given the appointment prior thought.

County Students Learn Saving at Their Own School Banks

Montgomery Blair Expects to Handle $100,000 This Year

By Roger B. Farquhar
Post Reporter

Students at two Montgomery high schools are mixing the fun of running a bank with learning at first hand the value of saving.

At Montgomery Blair High School, in Silver Spring, the students handled more than $70,000 last year, and at the other school, Richard Montgomery High, in Rockville, $22,000.

Mrs. Jane Lear, 10111 McKenney ave., Silver Spring, faculty adviser at Blair, yesterday said she expected the school bank this year would handle more than $100,000.

At both school banks savings accounts by the students are encouraged and some open accounts with only a few cents. All funds collected by each school are deposited in the banks.

Each institution has a student bank president, vice president, and the necessary number of cashiers, assistant cashiers, tellers, bookkeepers, and typists.

The student activity at the Rockville school is a bank in every sense of the word. All the usual bank services are available, except loans. The institution, in fact, is a branch of the Farmers Bank and Trust Co. in Rockville.

Miss Lillian E. Brown of Rockville, banking teacher at Richard Montgomery, said the school bank is incorporated with the capital stock of $120 divided into 1200 shares. Students may buy up to 50 shares at 10 cents a share.

THRIFTY STUDENTS—At the Bank of Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring, Md.—a bank typical of those in all Maryland high schools—Teller John Kennedy of 4517 9th st. nw. receives payment from June Bean of Hollywood Park, Md. Waiting to make deposits are Wilmer Trageser (left) of Silver Spring and Winnie Winn of 815 Forest Glen rd., Silver Spring. The Blair bank expects an annual business of $100,000

"We pay a 10 per cent dividend on the stock, but you can't get rich because of the 50-share limit," she pointed out. The interest money is accumulated by depositing it in a savings account, she said.

Accounts in both school banks are maintained for miscellaneous activities, athletics the school cafeteria, student publications, and the Federal tax fund.

The Richard Montgomery Bank offers checking accounts and Miss Brown says the pupils virtually never overdraw, and there has been no embezzlement and no rubber checks, either.

Only small amounts of money are kept at the schools. The Rockville deposits are taken each day to Farmers Bank & Tust Co. and those in Silver Spring to Suburban National Bank.

Man Found Hanged in Home Attic

William R. Smart, 31, of 1509 Roosevelt ave., Tyler Park, near Falls Church, Va., was found hanged in the attic of his home yesterday afternoon.

His body was discovered about 2:20 p. m. by his wife, Nina, who had just returned with their sons, William, 7, and Robert, 4, after picking up William at the new Oak Street school.

Smart's body was suspended from a rafter by a clothesline, tied around his neck, police said. Fairfax County Coroner Nelson Podolnick said he would issue a certificate of suicide.

Smart's brother, L. Ray Smart of 118 E. Westmoreland rd., Falls Church, said Smart had been released last Wednesday from the veterans' hospital at Perry Point, Md., where he had been under treatment six months for a nervous breakdown.

He was on leave from Army Map Services, where he had been employed as an engineer since 1941, but was due to return to work in about three weeks, the brother said.

Smart served as a sergeant in the Army for a year and a half during the war, according to his brother. He showed no signs of despondency and had said he was going to take a nap when his wife left to get the eldest boy, the brother said. No notes were found.

Proposed New Hotel Rules Are Opposed

Proposed new regulations for rooming houses, apartments and hotels now under consideration by the District Commissioners' we opposed in a resolution adopted at a meeting last night by the Columbia Improvement Association.

About 25 persons including some visitors, attended the meeting in Fourth Presbyterian Church, 13th and Fairmont sts. nw. The meeting was called by President Margaret Hopkins Worrell, attorney and former president of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association.

The resolution said the regulations were being proposed under authority of H. R. 1448, passed at the first session of the Eightieth Congress, and gave the Commissioners absolute power to exercise legislative functions in the classifying and licensing of public housing in the District." This, "in the opinion of competent authorities," is "unconstitutional."

The resolution was offered by John A. Savage of 1303 Fairmont st. nw., and seconded by Ira C. Koehne, an attorney.

Clifford H. Newell, a past president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, described a plan for selective home ownership devised after the Supreme Court had declared racial covenants unenforceable.

The plan calls for residents of a city block to give an option on their property to one person in the block, the option to be exercised only at such time as there was likelihood of the property being purchased by a person considered by the others as not the proper person to move into the block.

"No one is harmed" by the plan, Newell said, and "the environment remains the same."

Reward Grows For Slayer Of Policeman

Reward for the killer of Alexandria Policeman Robert B. Harris mounted to $2000 yesterday with $300 posted during the day by private citizens.

Contributions for Harris' widow and baby had reached $2000 during the day with many contributions still uncounted.

Meanwhile, the search for the person who shot Harris at 2:45 a. m. last Saturday as the officer was making a routine check in the rear of a building made no headway, police said.

Detective Inspector Russell A. Hawes said he was still holding one suspect who could not account for his activities the night of the shooting and who was arrested while trying to hop a freight train out of town.

To help prevent another such shooting, Police Maj. Edgar Sims yesterday asked all merchants to install night lights in the rear of their business places.

This, he said, would help protect police as well as deter vandalism. There was no light behind the Howard Johnson restaurant at N. Washington and Montgomery sts., where Harris was shot, Sims said.

McCormack Rites Planned At Arlington

Edward J. McCormack, chief of studies and research for the House Postoffice and Civil Service Committee, died of a heart attack at his home at 2545 Waterside dr. nw. yesterday. He was 57 years old.

Mr. McCormack

His wife, Mrs. Josephine McCormack, said she was talking by telephone to a relative in Memphis, Tenn., when her husband returned from a dentist appointment and complained of feeling ill.

He died in her arms before either the family physician, Dr. John Minor, or an ambulance with a police escort, which had been called, could reach the house.

Mr. McCormack apparently had been in good health. He had celebrated his fifty-seventh birthday on Thursday and had been at his office that day, Mrs. McCormack said.

Former Insurance Executive

Born in Nashville, Tenn., Mr. McCormack was at one time vice president of the Columbia Mutual Insurance Co., in Memphis, but resigned from that position in 1935 to enter Government service in Washington.

He helped to set up the Social Security Board in that year, and later was connected with the Railroad Retirement Board, the Office of Price Administration and the Smaller War Plants Corp. He was named to head the Civil Service Committee's investigation staff in 1943.

In 1945, Mr. McCormack prepared a report demanding a congressional investigation of the Government employes who were never advanced in their jobs, whom he referred to as the "lost battalion." He was dismissed after he released a letter, which he had sent to former Representative Robert Ramspeck (D., Ga.), then chairman of the committee, in which he charged that his report was being held from the House because it might interfere with Federal pay-raise legislation then under consideration.

Representative Edward H. Rees (R., Kans.), now head of the committee, objected to the dismissal as being unwarranted, and praised Mr. McCormack for his work as a "conscientious and able employe."

Later a subcommittee was named to investigate the McCormack charges. A year and a half ago, he was reinstated in his old post with the unanimous approval of the committee.

In World War I, Mr. McCormack rose from the ranks to a colonel of Field Artillery and saw service overseas.

At the outbreak of World War II, he again offered to serve, but was turned down because of a slight heart ailment.

His disappointment at being unable to serve in World War II was somewhat eased in 1945, when his three sons, two of whom were Army officers, were reunited here.

Headed Tennessee Society

It was a gala occasion, when Miles C. McCormack, an Air Forces second lieutenant, arrived home after two years as a prisoner in Germany, where his B-17 had been forced down.

Another son, John McCormack, who served as a major in Italy, was home, too. So was the third son, Malcolm McCormack, who had just been awarded a saber for leadership as a cadet colonel at Western High School.

Miles and John now live near Memphis. Malcolm recently graduated from the Foreign Service School at Georgetown University.

Mr. McCormack was new president of the Tennessee State Society here and had been busy making plans for a society celebration next month, his wife said.

Besides his wife and three sons, he is survived by a brother, James McCormack, commissioner of insurance and banking for Tennessee, and two sisters, Miss Marie McCormack, a teacher at Memphis State Teachers College, and Mrs. Dorothy Creath of Memphis.

Funeral arrangements will be completed later. He will be buried with military honors in Arlington Cemetery.

Police Rookie Denies Charges, Says He Was Ill

The Police Trial Board yesterday heard a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer against Police Pvt. George A. Williams, 22, of 4427 Quarles st. ne. He pleaded not guilty.

The board took the case under advisement and will announce a decision on Monday, Inspector Milton D. Smith, chairman, said after a hearing which consumed most of the day.

The charge was based on a complaint by Leonard J. Rau, 1607 16th st. nw., and Norman I. Stein, 1325 Randolph st. nw., students at the National Institute of Commerce and Technology, 1332 New York ave. nw.

The students said they had seen a man committing an indecent act in an alley behind the school, on the evening of August 19.

Williams, who denied the specifications charged, said he was taking a short cut through the alley, where he became ill.

The policeman, who has been in the Police Department for 15 months, is on suspension from his assignment with the vice squad.

DAR Marks Signing of Constitution

By Genevieve Reynolds

Throughout the Nation yesterday thousands of Americans gathered at patriotic ceremonies to commemorate the 161st anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution. Here in the Nation's Capital the historic occasion was observed chiefly by the District Daughters of the American Revolution in a colorful program held last night in the National History Museum, 10th and Constitution ave.

Some 500 DAR members and their friends witnessed the massing of the colors as 60 DAR chapters. Mrs. Clara Mae Walther directed the flag ceremony.

Jennings Randolph, former Congressional Representative from West Virginia and now assistant to the president of the Capital Airlines, addressed the group on "The Meaning of Americanism."

Mr. Randolph Speaks

"Native-born and naturalized Americans must join forces to keep strong our Democratic institutions of government," he declared. "Those persons who accept the privileges, the profits and the protection of the United States gladly must give loyalty in return.'

Mr. Randolph deplored the small number of ballots cast in the 1944 presidential elections and insisted that at least 85 per cent of eligible voters should go to the polls this November to prove to the peoples of the world "our actual demonstration of democracy at work. There must be an increased use of the right and responsibility of franchise if the United States is to continue to give dynamic leadership to the world," he asserted. "It ill behooves us to criticize dictatorial countries if we fail to participate in the processes of government here at home."

He told the audience that " it is necessary to encourage a grounding in the essential studies of American history, civics and political sciences."

Alluding to Elizabeth Bentley's testimony before congressional committees that she went through public high school and graduated from Vassar College and Columbia University without studying American history, Randolph averred, "such a condition disclosed a weakness in our teaching program."

"It is apparently popular among certain individuals on the fringe of subversive groups to proclaim that we become narrow and isolated in our thinking if we strongly defend our institutions," he declared. "It is my opinion that our youth must be inculcated with the story of the rights granted to all men under our Constitution and enunciated by the Declaration of Independence. Passive acceptance of these truths is not sufficient. We must weave them into our educational fabric.

Contrasts Soviet System

"Communist Russia is pointed to by some of our people as a nation where the worker has rights and opportunities not enjoyed in the United States," he continued. "The reverse is true. The Soviet laborer must toil 30 to 40 times as long as an American worker to buy a similar article. The Communist must purchase from a state-owned and operated store while in this country the worker purchases at a business firm of his own choosing.

Included on the program was a pledge of allegiance to the flag by Mrs. Frank G. Morris, chairman; correct use of the flag committee; the showing of a motion picture, "Our Constitution"; audience singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," led by Mrs. Charles Carroll Haig. Mrs. David Wells, District State DAR regent, presided. Mrs. George D. Nolan, who arranged the program introduced the speaker.

Preceding the program, the United States Navy Band, under the direction of Comdr. Charles Brendler, gave a half-hour concert.

Ask Anne
About Making Preserves

I have a quart jar (very solidly-packed) of home-canned strawberries. I am not sure whether any sugar was used in the canning—if any certainly only a very little. I would like to make preserves out of these berries, preferably without using commercial pectin. Is it necessary to use apple pectin, or do strawberries contain their own? If they do, would it have been destroyed by the canning process? Would it be possible to combine the berries with say, rhubarb? How much sugar should I use per cup of berries? And if I use apple pectin or rhubarb, what proportion? Will it be possible to use the frozen rhubarb?
E. L. G.

If you wish a preserve which is jelled, it will be necessary to use a commercial pectin or an apple pectin. Strawberries contain very little pectin and a part of that small amount would have been destroyed as your berries were heated during the canning process. You may combine the berries with rhubarb for flavor, but you will have to add pectin to jell the combination. If you use this combination, cook the rhubarb until tender, adding just enough water to avoid scorching. When tender, combine berries and rhubard. For four cups of the combined fruit fruit and juice use six cups sugar and one bottle of fruit pectin. Bring fruit and sugar to a boil and add pectin all at once, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one half minute. Remove from fire, skim, and pour immediately into sterilized glasses. Using a commercial pectin with your already cooked berries will have the advantage of reducing the cooking time to an absolute minimum, thus preventing the berries from being cooked up.

If you wish to use apple pectin with the berries, boil 2 pounds of chopped-up apples (including skins and cores), juice of 1 lemon and 4 cups water for 40 minutes. Press pulp and juice through a strainer. Since you are making preserves, you could use both the pulp and juice. When you are ready to make the preserves, use 1 cup of the apple pectin to each cup of strawberries as they come from the can. When the combination of fruit has come to a full rolling boil, add ¾ cup of sugar to each cup of juice. Boil 15 minutes and pour into a shallow pan to cool. Allow to stand overnight, shaking the pans occasionally so that the berries absorb the juice and remain plump. Pour the cold preserves into sterilized containers and seal.

Frozen rhubarb may be used very successfully in the preserves, if you wish.

Would you tell me the names of trade journals on hat making and lampshade making? How can I get these journals? R. B.

The hatmakers journal is "The Milliner's Review," published at 15 East 40th st., New York City. The one on lampshade making is "The Lamp Review," published by Rosenthal & Smythe, 118 East 28th st., New York 16, New York. I would suggest you write to the publishers for the magazines.

Cleaning Jewelry

Jewels from a sea source, such as pearls and coral, should not be soaked for long in chemicals or soap-and-water. That is not their natural swimming pool! Turquoise, which contains up to 20 per cent water, tends to dry out with soaking and should only be dipped and wiped. Opals, although mined in the ground, absorb moisture, and opal rings have been known to change their marking from contact with dirty water or ink spilled on the stone. So opals should be dipcleaned.

Nose Shine

New magic to banish nose shine is a colorless liquid which is put on cotton and applied to nose, chin or any other part of the face that gleams. The shine is said to disappear and does not return for hours.

MARK TRAIL

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

This Guy Is Obviously "Not Guilty"

The best alibi of the season was furnished by the fellow who was picked up as a suspect in the murder of an Alexandria policeman.

He convinced police that it couldn't have been he who did the shooting, because at the time it happened he was in another part of town, holding up a filling station.

ALL IS NOT LOST

Broadcasters are worried about the possibility that the Federal Communications Commission may put a stop to programs which give away money and prizes.

Such a ruling would shake radio to its very foundations, but would not necessarily mean the end of the broadcasting industry.

There'd still be the weather reports, the soap operas, and Mr. Tash, the manager.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

Robert Haas of 2963 McKinley st. nw. wonders whether it isn't time to start spelling the nickname of the local baseball team "Gnats."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Have you ever had any dealings with an unreliable radio repairman?

Anybody who would like to know about my experience with one is welcome to be present when my suit against him comes up in Small Claims Court.

I paid this repairman $30 to fix my radio, but was not satisfied with his work. So I had him deliver the set to a place recommended by the factory. This second shop did $32 worth of work on the set, to put it in good order.

Now I am suing to recover the money I paid the first man. Don't you think that people who want to do this kind of repair work should be required to pass an examination, and that cases like this should be publicized in the public interest?

Norman Mathias,
Route 1, Fairfax rd.
McLean, Va.

Dear Norman:

I'm afraid the unscrupulous will always be with us—whether they repair our radios, autos, appliances, watches or whatever. Reputable firms hate them as much as we do.

Having also been "taken" on occasion, I've developed a few rules for myself. You may find them of interest.

First, I try to limit my dealings to firms of some standing in the community. Then, I see that we have a clear-cut understanding regarding the work to be done, the conditions and the price.

If there's a guarantee, it should be in writing. If I'm not satisfied, I make my complaint to the manager in as friendly and reasonable a manner as possible. (When a guy is sizzling, that sometimes takes a bit of doing.)

And when all else fails, I exercise my right to take my business elsewhere, and just charge up the cost of the lesson to "experience." It's the biggest account on my ledger.

Bill.

PERSONAL NOTES

Victor Clunet, 4531 Yuma st. nw.: Not at all—thanks for being a good sport about it. And, incidentally, maybe you can explain to me why the whole world seems to delight in poking fun at an unsuccessful fisherman.

The baseball pitcher who has been knocked out of the box gets a gentlemanly round of applause;

the prizefighter who has lost gets a sportsmanlike cheer; the tennis player who goes sprawling in an effort to return a hot shot is encouraged with, "Nice try, old man."

But the poor fisherman is the target for everybody's barbs. I just don't get it.

MISCELLANY

Midshipman George H. Dimon, jr., of Bancroft Hall, United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., gets his oar into our clew-clue discussion. He says: "A clew is not necessarily the lower corner of a square sail. It is also the term applied to the after corner of a triangular sail, where the leech meets the foot of the sail" . . . Calvin Pierson of 5403 39th ave., Hyattsville, Md., says I ought to tell you about the Capital Dog Training Club, whose officers and instructors work for free. They teach you how to train a dog to heel on leash, to sit where he's told, and come when he's called. If you'd like a free demonstration, be at the training field (Military rd. and Glover rd., in Rock Creek Park) at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon . . . Bob Morrow postcards: "Joe DiMaggio catching a fly for the last Griffith Stadium out of the year—and then tossing the ball to the little boy who came tumbling down out of the stands to beg for it; that's the kind of big league play that never gets into the box scores."

GIVE AWAYS

"One female manx cat; one poppa cat." (Decatur 7808).

"Two part angora kittens, 7 weeks old." (Emerson 5422 after 6 p. m.).

"Two 8-week-old kittens, very cute." (Emerson 5304 after 5 p. m.)

"Six-year-old brown and white female dog." (Georgia 2547 Saturday, between 8 a. m. and noon).

TASTY LITTLE ITEM

Two District Liners come through with the words to "Ode to a Pineapple Upside Down Cake," as used in the Disney movie.

Tommy Fisher of 2659 Connecticut ave. nw., and Edith L. R. Corliss of 9523 49th ave., Berwyn, Md., differ only on a few words, and offer:

Poor little upside down cake,
Cares and woes—you've got 'em.
Because, little upside down cake,
Your top is on your bottom.

Poor little upside down cake,
Your troubles never stop
Because, little upside down cake,
Your bottom's on your top.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Overheard: "The way that girl carries on! I'll bet if her mother was still alive she'd be turning over in her grave."

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (98.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—The Argentine officials have a mania for information, and tap all wires. An American correspondent in Buenos Aires, telephoning another reporter, suddenly heard a voice cut in and plead: "No English, please. The bilingual operator is off tonight. I'm the substitute, but I don't speak English" . . . Two embassy employes had a discussion about their telephone conversation of the preceeding night. One denied making a statement which the other attributed to him. "I'll bet you $20 you said that," said the second man. The first one, a newcomer, agreed: "It's a bet. But how can you prove it?" The second man went to the Argentine Information Office, was permitted to borrow the disc which recorded the telephone conversation, played it for his colleague, and collected the $20.

A young, pretty Virginian inherited $5000 and came to New York. After she spent $500, she approached a friend whose family is in the Social Register and said: "I want to get ahead in New York. I've got to decide between investing the remaining $4500 in an education—going to the school you're attending—or in a mink coat." She finally decided to invest the $4500 in a mink coat . . . The Good Books would have it that now she's broke and remorseful. But the truth is that she's living in the Waldorf Towers, and recently received $100,000 in jewelry from the South American millionaire, Albert Dodero.

S. Hurok, the impresario, has just returned from Europe, where he visited 52 DP camps, searching for ensemble talent. He selected 300 singers and dancers who are now being screened. Hurok will bring them to America under the new quota regulations which will permit them to remain here permanently. He expects to present them first at Madison Square Garden, and then tour them by buses throughout the country.

Kenny Gardner, Guy Lombardo's vocalist, owns the pistol carried by the German S. S. General Kreuger. Capt. Gardner entered Kreuger's headquarters in Wels, Austria, and the German said he wished to surrender directly to George Patton . . . Gardner reached for the Nazi's pistol, and Kreuger insisted that he'd surrender it only to Gen. Patton. "Take your choice," the American officer proposed. "Either I let you keep your pistol and march you through the city to Patton's headquarters, with your hands over your head, or I take your pistol and let you ride to see the general in my jeep" . . . Kreuger gave up his pistol, and entered the jeep.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Democrats Hunt Down Money

By Drew Pearson

The woebegone, bedraggled Democratic National Committee finally came to life last week, after limping perilously near the verge of bankruptcy.

McGrath

Some of the committee's operations have been so amateurish they are unbelievable. In New York the committee has been paying for 50 rooms at the Biltmore Hotel—and keeping them empty. Desks and stenographers sit in the rooms—but that's not all.

Meanwhile, young ladies have been given the job of raising money from top Democrats. Instead of having important leaders call on the big givers, young ladies who never met the big boys before have made the calls and come away almost empty-handed. A young lady was even sent to call on millionaire John J. Raskob, former Democratic chairman and former head of General Motors.

Chairman Howard McGrath, a good Senator but apparently not an executive, has let his committee drift—hopeless, rudderless, pathetic.

Last week, however, a money-raising campaign was launched at the White House. Mr. Truman invited about 30 top Democrats for ter, from California's Ed Pauley to New York's Morris Ernst. After the tea, he got up on a chair and made a little speech.

"I am appealing to you for help," he said, "help to carry my message to the American people. We just haven't got the money to buy radio time. In Detroit on Labor Day we had to cut out one of the most important parts of my speech because we didn't have the money to stay on the air."

Mr. Truman looked pathetic and alone. He looked so appealing that those present forgot how many of them had opposed his renomination, how many had predicted that no money could be raised if he were nominated. They even forgot Truman's dog-in-the-manger attitude at Philadelphia.

However, a special finance committee met, including St. Paul's Robert Butler, Ambassador to Cuba; Cleveland's Joe Keenan, War Crimes Prosecutor in Japan; West Virginia's Louis Johnson, former Assistant Secretary of War; California's George Killion, president of the American President Lines; Ed Pawley, Ambassador to Brazil.

Before they finished, and after some long-distance telephoning, they had pledged half a million dollars. One man alone pledged $100,000.

Louis Johnson was their appointed finance chairman—and promptly started housecleaning Democratic hangers-on who owed their jobs to once-important relatives.

To William Prim, son-in-law of North Carolina's late Senator Bailey, Johnson gave a tough bawling-out.

"You can cooperate with us and get some real work done, "stormed the former Assistant War Secretary, "or you can get out."

Ambassador Pawley amazed his colleagues by telling how he had walked into Democratic Headquarters and told one of the lady money-raisers:

"I want to give five. Will you please write out a check for me?

"Naturally, I meant five grand," explained Pawley later. "So imagine my surprise when the young lady writes out a check for $5. No more, no less."

This caused Johnson to jump down the throat of another chair-warmer, Asa Caraway, son of Arkansas' former Senator Hattie Caraway.

"This kind of thing has got to stop," he told Caraway, who was considered responsible for the lady money-raisers. "Either it's going to stop—or you get out."

Johnson also proceeded to raise the Democratic money-raising goal from the $1,500,000 which had been fixed by McGrath to $2,500,000.

One thing that discourages Democratic campaign-planners is that for every $10,000 they raise for Truman, his grandstanding military aide, Gen. Harry Vaughan, throws away $50,000 worth of political gain.

The genial, bumbling Vaughan has just pulled a boner that will take a lot of political repair work to patch up.

Vaughan has become a buddy of the famous Negro Aviator, "Colonel" Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, who describes himself as the "Black Eagle" and who, during the Ethiopian War, was Emperor Haile Selassie's one-man air corps.

Apparently trying to win the Negro vote (though it's already strong behind Truman) Vaughan sent "Colonel" Julian to Europe to inspect Negro troops—partly at the Government's expense.

Arriving in Europe with an advance buildup by General Vaughan, Julian was given the VIP treatment (Very Important Persons). He toured the entire American zone of Germany as the guest of the Army, was given a military aide, and spent an hour with General Clay—one of the busiest men in the world.

But the Army brass hats were in for a rude shock. They found that "Colonel" Julian had interests other than the treatment of Negro troops. He was also using the prestige given him by the White House Military Aide to promote personal interests.

Note—Republican leaders say they get down on their knees every night and pray that Truman will not transfer Harry Vaughan before Election Day.

Wiggly Kristina

Kristina has a way with me . . . I never can resist . . . And that is why from day to day . . . Her schemes have never missed . . . She merely tells me what she wants . . . And then she sort of sighs . . . And wistfully she looks at me . . . With those enchanting eyes . . . From gorgeous dolls and teddy bears . . . To candy, gum and such . . . My beautiful Kristina knows . . . I am an easy touch . . . I call her 'Wiggly' just because . . . Wherever we may be . . . There are so many toys and things . . . She wiggles out of me . . . But she is such a lovely girl . . . And always good as gold . . . That I would buy up all the world . . . To please my 5-year old.
